Mr. Bury built a large, fine log house in 1829, and built the first frame barn in the township. He was very successful in all his efforts, and lived to enjoy the results of his industry and energy, raising his two children to man and womanhood. Mary, his daughter, married Sebastian Goss; she died in 1837. Mr. Bury was an honored member of the Reformed Church. He died in 1861. After the death of his father, John took charge of the farm, having obtained a fair education.

In 1833 he married Miss Hannah Zerkle, raising a family of nine children, of whom six survive, viz.: Catharine, a widow; Elizabeth, now the wife of Jacob Wildershatt, of Baltimore, O.; Julia Ann, the wife of John Loose, of Seneca county, O.; Joseph H., a well known resident of Liberty township, residing on the farm formerly owned by his grandfather; Hannah Caroline, the wife of Joseph Bigomey, also of Liberty township; and Jacob Benjamin, who is the owner of one hundred and twenty acres, and has charge of the home place. Before disposing of the farms to his sons, Mr. Bury owned four hundred and ten acres, and still owns over two hundred acres, also the fine residence, making a very pleasant home. In politics he is a Democrat, and has filled some of the minor offices in his township---that of township trustee for a period of nine years. He has been a member of the Reform Church for fifty-five years. Being a genial and hospitable gentleman, he was held in the highest esteem by his friends and neighbors. Mrs. Bury died March 8th, 1864.

BURY, JOSEPH H., was born in Liberty township, Fairfield county, November 3d, 1834; son of John and Hannah Bury. Joseph attended the public schools and acquired a good education. He remained at home until his marriage to Miss Samantha J. Winter, April 18th, 1875. They are the parents of four children, three of whom---Jennetta A., Nellie H. and Ida Ellen---are living.

BUSH, MRS. PHOEBE, Lancaster, Ohio, was born in Fairfield county, November 27th, 1834; daughter of Andrew and Rachel Foust. Andrew Foust has filled various public positions in Fairfield county for some twenty years. He was Justice of the Peace, a member of the General Assembly for one or two terms, also represented his district in the State Senate. Himself and family are residents of Pickaway county. His daughter Phoebe, after receiving a fair common school education, was united in marriage September 23, 1851, to George Mayes, a native of Pickaway county, who was born in 1828. To them have been born two sons and two daughters, of whom the following survive: Franklin E., a resident of Lancaster; Mary Emma, wife of Theodore Mithoff, Jr., of Columbus; Georgie Ella, wife of Rev. Scott F. Hershey of Lancaster. Mr. Mayes died November 11th, 1862. Mrs. Mayes was again married December 11th, 1866, to William Bush, who was born in Fairfield county about 1827. Mr. Bush was a tailor by trade, and at the time of his marriage was in the employ of Philip Rising, with whom he remained some nine years. He was then elected Sheriff of that county in 1873, and two years later he was re-elected. THE HISTORY OF THE FAUST FAMILY

The relation of the physical features of a country to its history is an important one,and he who learns the hidden causes that make or mar a nation at its birth must seek in these the divinity that shapes its ends. Here is found the elixir vital to a nation.

The physical features of a country have a direct effect upon the people who make up a nation in their wanderings and their method o living,also,their mental development. Since the beginning of time as man knows it,man has developed from wandering over the face of the ear

We who undertake to write a history or a record of a family must apologize to some extent,as the most of our information has to co from peoples memory and memory is not always to be depended upon.

In the year of 1755 there was born in the principality of Hess,Germany (Germany at this time was not a complete nation,the principality of Hess is now a part of west Prussea) one Jacob Faust, his father was probably a blacksmith or a farmer,more likely the latte

At this time Europe was much upset with strife and small war Men born in a principality practically belonged to the Prince or Ruler It being the custom of all men when coming of age to take up a career some kind,war being the most common occupation at this time in all probability young Jacob took up a military career. The principality o Hess was very strong at this time,having no war on his hands at this time,the ruling Prince decided to hire out some of his fine army to fight for a certain amount of money to be paid by him,the Prince.

Where or who they fought,the soldier in the ranks did not have anything to say about,discipline being very strict,they went wher they were sent,whether they liked it or not.

In 1775,England undertook to subdue the thirteen colonies of America,who were in revolution against King George of England. This wa not popular with the English people,although King George pursued his ends with much vim and vigor,the war had dragged on for a couple of ye King George decided that he would hire some mercenary troops,so he made arrangements with the Prince of Hess for about ten thousand Hessian soldiers to fight for England. They were sent to America about the year 1777,some to General Bourgoyne in Canada,some to General Howe who was campaigning against Washington in and around New York.

Jacob's regiment was probably among those sent to reinforce General Howe at New York. It might be well here to add a paragraph from American History; "Campaign of 1777. General Howe instead of going to Bourgoyne's aid in the North decided to turn south and take Philadelphia. He prepared to march across New Jersey,but Washington perceiving his purpose,blocked him and worried him by superior strategy Then Howe decided to sail for the rebel capital.

In August he appeared in Chesapeake Bay and began an advance Philadelphia. A battle was fought at Brandywine Creek and the American sorely outnumbered, were beaten. Washington brought his troops off in clever fashion, and the day after the battle he had his army organized and ready to fight again. The British entered Philadelphia. Even no the heart of the American Commander did not fail him. He determined t surprise the enemy at Germantown, and he mapped out a plan of operation which, if successful, would have overwhelmed them. An attack was made i the early morning and was almost a success, but two advancing divisions lost their way in a dense fog, and one fired upon the other thinking it was the enemy.- So the surprise was a failure."

During the campaign of 1777 and 1778, several thousand of the Hessian troops fell into Washington's hands as prisoners of war. Thes soldiers upon giving their word that they would not fight any more against the Americans were given their parole, and given the privilege to settle in what is now Burks County, Pa. This settlement was without a doubt the origin of the German settlers in Pennsylvania and also, the word we hear so much of, "Pennsylvania Dutch".

We have good information that Jacob Faust was severely wounded at the Battle of Brandywine. It is more than likely that he was one of the prisoners released on parole by General Washington.

Jacob Faust married, built himself a cabin and began the life of a real pioneer here. His first son was born in 1785, they named him 1st Born Jacob after the father, which was the custom at that time. The next son, John, 2nd was born in 1787, then followed two boys probably born about 1789 and 1791, respectively, of which we have no record or knowledge. 5th David, born in 1794, 6 Abraham, born in 1796, 7 Henry in 1799.

About this time there was much talk about the West and a great many of their friends were moving over into the Ohio Country. In 1800, Jacob loaded his family into an ox wagon and came to what is now Pickway County, Ohio. There he made a temporary stop, probably stayed about one year. From there he came to the forks of the river in northern Delaware County, here he made himself a home, in which he lived almost twenty years. Here was born Pollie, in 1801, 8th Sam in 1804, 9th Jonas in 1806, 10th Andrew, in 1808.

In 1812, Jacob Junior, and John, came through with Hohn Milligan, who was making a survey of the Delaware-Mansfield Road, which i now a part of Route #42. After their return home to Delaware the country to the north of them must have made an impression, for in 1820, Jacob with his family some of whom were married, came to what is now Morrow County, and settled in Westfield Township.

Jacob Faust possessed the sterling quality that made both a soldier and a frontiersman, he was not only a soldier himself, but sent his sons to fight for the country he had adopted as his own. Three of them, Jacob, John and Abraham fought in the War of 1812 against England Two, David and Samuel, fought in the Frontier Wars against the Indians. Samuel serving as a teamster in the army at the age of 11 years.

During the early days the settlers had to travel to the lake for their supplies. Zanesville, on the Ohio Canal, was their nearest town of any size. Jacob made many trips through the wilderness to Zanesville and Lake Erie, bringing supplies for the immediate neighborhood, some of the trips took as much as two weeks through the wilderness.

After a long and useful life Jacob Faust died April 2nd., 1841, age 80 years, and was laid to rest in the little Mound cemetary in Westfield Township; his wife Cristeny, four years later at the age of 77 years.

Jacob Faust, son of Jacob and Cristeney, born in 1875. in Burks County, Pa., lived most of his life in Morrow County, Ohio and was buried on land now owned by Virgil Oker, about two miles west of Cardington. The second son, John, lived most of his life in Westfield Township and is buried in the Mound Cemetary. David, fifth son, buried at Windsors Corners, Westfield Township. Abraham, sixth son, born 1796, lived on a farm west of Westfield, died Aug. 12th, 1878, aged 82 years.

From this point in our story we are following just one branch of the family tree. Should any one who has the information of another branch wish to add to what we have here, they are welcome to do so.

Our branch starts with Jonas, ninth son of Jacob and Cristeney, who was born Nov. 9th, 1806, in Delaware County, Ohio. He came to Morrow County with his father in 1820, he being 14 years of age.

Morrow County at this time was almost a wilderness, there being no roads nor towns. Land was cheap but life was hard. They had to clear the land and dig their living out of the soil. Although life was hard and people did not live as good as at the present time, people were happy in their log cabins, regardless of how many in the family and how small the cabin, there was always room for the stranger or the neighbor.

It might be well to add here something in language. Up until the Civil War, 1861 to 1865, German was the language of the Faust family. The County was rapidly filling with new settlers; English being the universal language. They had to learn to speak English to be able to understand their neighbors. Schools were scarce so a good many of the family did not have the advantages of an education. Those who did have some schooling probably went to a German school. In writing the German "a" is written very similar to the English "o". It was probably at this time that the spelling of the family name was changed to "Foust", that being the English way of writing the word "Faust". Some members of the family even at the present time spell their name with an "o", Foust. It is the opinion of the author that "Faust" is the original German way of spelling the name.

The author spent some time in Germany after the close of the World War. The name "Faust" is very common there yet, but is spelled with an "a" not an "o".

While in Alsace Lorraine, I, in company with some other soldiers, stopped at a farm house to purchase and drink some wine. While sitting outside the house at a table I noticed a name over the door. The house was built of stone and probably 150 years old, The name carved in the stone in old German script and was hardly legible, but I was able to make out "Faust". I tried to inquire but the people spoke French and I was not able to get any information in regard to it

In Jonas' home the language was German until lafe in life. He was of stocky build, a powerful man of about 180 lbs., of the typical German-American of his period.

Jonas courted and married Susanah Brown, marriage taking place on Mar.15th,1829. To this union three children were born. Mary Faust, Oct.15th,1829; Andrew A., Jan.16th,1831; George H., May 9th,1832.

Susanah Faust died May 25th,1832 and is buried on the Mound. Two years later on June 4th,1835, Jonas married Elizabeth Kester, who was born on Feb.22nd.,1815, Jonas being 25 and she 19 years of age. To this union was born thirteen children. 1 Franklin born Nov.11th,1836 2 Kester, Dec.15th,1837; 3 Allen, Dec.1st.,1839; 4 an unnamed infant born and died Aug.12th,1841; 5 Harriet, born Dec.12th,1842; 6 Hiliary, born Oct.19th,1843; (never married. Died a young man). 7 Leander, born Apr.26t 1846; 8 Laura, Apr.30th,1849; (died a young woman) 9 Winfield, Nov.27th,1851 (Nothing more of him can be learned). 10 Infant born and died Mar.13th, 1853. 11 Jefferson, born Feb.4th,1854; 12 Ellen, Jan.13th,1856; 13 Winchester, June 26th,1858. 14 Sarah Apr. 1860

From the time Jonas came to this vicinity of Cardington at the age of 14 until his death he lived on a farm west of Cardington, his life being long and useful, he being one of the leaders of the neighborhood. He passed on at the age of 77 years, Following obituary printed in the Morrow County Independent, Mar.31st.,1884.

"Jonas Faust died Mar.29th,1884, at the residence of his daughter Mary Amick, in Westfield Township, Morrow County, where he had gone to spend the winter."

"Mr.Faust was born in Delaware County, Ohio Nov.9th,1806, wher he resided until 1820. He removed with his father to near where Cardington now stands, where he lived until last fall, He was 77 years 4 months and 20 days old. He was a member of a family of eleven children, and he now leaves one brother, eight sons, two daughters, thirty six grand children and seventeen great-grandchildren to mourn their loss. Mr.Faust was one of the pioneers of this part of the State, he having settled here when it was almost an unbroken forest.

"The funeral services took place at the residence of his daughter at two o'clock and were conducted by the Rev.Thomas G. Thompson. Interment was made on the Mound.

It is impossible for us to take each one of Jonas' children and trace them down to the present time. So we will take each one and give just the meager information which we have been able to acquire.

- FROM SECOND MARRIAGE
IOWA

Jacob Foust born 20 Jan 1787, Berks County, Pennsylvania,[1] occupation Farmer,[2] married (1) Cir 1807,[3] Hannah Earley, died before 1841, Ohio,[2] married (2) 25 May 1841, in Shelby County, Indiana,[4] Delilah Michael, born 11 Oct 1805,[1] died 15 Jan 1854, Warren County, Iowa,[1] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] Jacob died 28 Jun 1864, Warren County, Iowa,[1] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] He was a Veteran of the War of 1812. The 1850 Census states he was born in North Carolina; however, the 1860 Census shows he was born in Pennsylvania. Nothing is known about his first wife, Hannah Early, except her name, which appears on her daughter, Hannah's, death certificate. Jacob and his second wife, Delilah Michael, moved to Iowa with their children in the late 1840s and settled on a farm in Warren County. They remained there the rest of their lives. Jacob probably had children from his first marriage in addition to those listed here. This might include Catherine, who was married to Isaac Howery and also settled in Warren County, Iowa. The problem with this theory is the fact that the 1850 Census lists her birth as in the year 1819 in North Carolina, which does not conform with the other Foust children's birth state. One source states he had a daughter named Mary Ann during his first marriage but no other source can be found to confirm this.

Hannah: Nothing can be found to show where or when Hannah was born or who her parents were. There were Early families in Pennsylvania in 1790. These were the families of Edward and Henry in Chester County, 2 Johns in Dauphin County, John in Fayette County, James and John in Franklin County and Thomas and William in Washington County.

Delilah: She probably was a sister of John Michael, who was married to Elizabeth Bishop, the daughter of Jonathan J. Bishop and Lucy Jane Foust. A small inscription on Jacob and Delilah's tombstone states "Erected by H. Foust and J. Michaels".

I. Jesse Foust (son of Jacob Foust and Hannah Earley) born Cir 1807,[3] married 22 Jan 1825, in Marion County, Ohio,[3] Mary Magdalena Foust. Jesse died before 1840,[3] buried: Farm Hill Cemetery.[3] His wife, Mary Magdalena Foust, was also his Aunt.

II. Lucy Jane Foust (daughter of Jacob Foust and Hannah Earley) born 10 May 1809, Delaware County, Ohio,[5] married 1 Sep 1836, in Marion County, Ohio,[6] Jonathan J. Bishop, born 19 Jun 1811, Hancock County, Tennessee,[7] (son of Lewis Bishop and Mary Adams) occupation Farmer, died 15 May 1884, Warren County, Iowa,[1] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] Lucy died 15 Dec 1892, Warren County, Iowa,[2] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] There is some doubt on the year of her birth as her tombstone shows 1805 and the Family Bible records it as 1809. There is also some doubt about the year in which they were married. The family bible stated they were married in 1835 and the Warren County, Iowa history states they were married in 1836. Soon after their marriage in Ohio, they went to Shelby County, Indiana and farmed there for several years. Shelby County was the birthplace of most of their children. In 1847 they came to Iowa, stopping a year at Burlington, and then came on to Warren County the next year. They settled on a farm close to Middle River, which was about halfway between Spring Hill and Summerset. Lucy had a son, Elias M. Foust, who was born before her marriage to Jonathan. She was midwife to many of the families of the community until she became too old for that activity. She was declared incompetent on 16 June 1892 and her sons, Alexander and Leander, were appointed as her guardians.

Jonathan: They went to Shelby County, Indiana and farmed there for a number of years before coming to Iowa in 1847. They stayed a year in Burlington, Des Moines County, before coming to Greenfield Township, Warren County in 1848 and remained there to farm the rest of their lives. He was a charter member of the First Christian Church of North River and was on the first board of trustees when the church was organized 2 May 1849. One source states he was born in Washington County, Virginia.

A. Elias Marion Foust (son of Lucy Jane Foust) born 25 Mar 1831, Marion County, Ohio,[8] occupation Farmer, married (1) 1853, Sarah Etta Bishop, born 23 Oct 1828,[1] occupation Housewife, died 23 Dec 1854, Iowa,[1] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA,[1] married (2) 4 Sep 1856, in Warren County, Iowa,[9] Margaret Ann Hoover, born 17 Feb 1839, Shelby County, Indiana,[1] (daughter of Ephraim Hoover and Julia Ann Howery) occupation Housewife, died 30 Jun 1914, Warren County, Iowa,[1] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] Elias died 29 Nov 1914, Warren County, Iowa,[8] buried: North River Cemetery, Warren County, IA.[1] In his early youth he removed with his mother and stepfather to Shelby County, Indiana and they later joined the tide of emigration which was pushing westward into Iowa. They arrived in Warren County, Iowa in 1848 and the next year Elias bought 40 acres of land from the government for $1.25 per acre. He then cleared the land of the heavy timber and brush, built a log cabin and started farming. Between 1848 and 1853 he also hired out to break ground with his ox team for other newcomers to Warren, Polk and Madison Counties. At one time he operated a ferry boat across the river from downtown Des Moines, which at that time was a very small settlement on the west bank close to the fork of the Des Moines and Raccoon Rivers, to the east bank where the Capitol grounds are now located. He had an opportunity to buy the ground which now includes the Capitol and Capitol grounds in East Des Moines. He deliberated for some time whether he should buy government land for farming or purchase the land which is now in the very heart of Des Moines. He finally elected to remain a farmer on his 40-acre homestead and remained there the rest of his life. It is said that at the time of his death he was the only man left in Warren County who had lived continuously and died on land entered from the government. He apparently was married to Sarah Etta Bishop in the early 1850's; however, no record of this marriage has been found. She died in childbirth and she and her new-born baby were buried together in North River Cemetery. One story states she was a step-sister of Elias, which would indicate his stepfather was married prior to his marriage to Elias' mother. Elias was then married to Margaret Ann Hoover in 1856 and they set up housekeeping in the log cabin he had built earlier. They lived there until it became too small to accommodate their growing family, which eventually numbered 13 children. They built a comfortable story-and-a-half frame house which stood until it was destroyed by fire in the 1960's. The log cabin later served as the home for Margaret's mother, Julia Ann, until her death. It then became a weaving house where Margaret wove rugs and most of the cloth used in making the clothes for the family. Elias was a quiet, gentle and kind man who was respected by all who knew him. He had light, perhaps sandy-red, hair and clear blue eyes and the stocky build of his German ancestors. He served with the Home Guard during the Civil War.

Sarah: An infant is buried by Sarah.

Margaret: She was quite prim and sedate - very beautiful in her youth - with dark brown hair and snapping brown eyes. She was noted for her quick temper on occasion. She and Elias both loved to have their family and friends visit them but they seldom went away from their home. They were both baptized in the First Christian Church of North River about 1890 and they remained steadfast in their faith in Christ even though they were unable to attend services regularly. In 1913 she was stricken with paralysis from which she had not recovered when a second stroke left her completely helpless and without the power of speech as only her eyes moved. Their daughter, Addie Kennedy, and her family moved in with them after Margaret's first stroke and took complete care of them until their deaths. At Margaret's funeral at North River Church, Elias stood by the casket and softly murmured "It won't be long, Mother." He lived only 5 months after her death.

Funeral services were held at her home. She had come to Iowa with her family in the 1840's.

Joshua: His first wife, Anna Bishop, was his first cousin. After living in Shelby County, Indiana for several years, they left their Indiana home and started their trip to Iowa. Anna apparently died enroute after giving birth to her fifth baby. He and his family came from Shelby County by way of Springfield, Illinois and crossed the Mississippi River at what is now Keokuk, Iowa. They made the trip in at least one covered wagon, which was drawn by 6 yokes of oxen. They arrived in Greenfield Township, Warren County, Iowa in the middle 1840's and immediately "squatted" on and "staked out" 160 acres. During the Winter he cut, split and hauled rails from the nearby timber - which he also pre-empted - to fence it all. He had already built his log cabin before Winter set in. He apparently obtained the land at a later date under "squatter's rights", or the Pre-emption Act of 1841, which provided that a squatter, upon showing evidence of having erected a dwelling on the land he claimed, could buy 160 acres at the rate of $1.25 per acre. All of his efforts were not in vain as the 1870 Census shows that Joshua had become a wealthy man by that day's standards.

HISTORY OF MORROW COUNTY - 257

CHAPTER IV.

HISTORY-THE REVOLUTION-SECOND WAR WITH GREAT BRITAIN-MEXICAN WAR-THE REBELLION

THE history of Morrow County in the wars in which the country has been involved is of a character that her people may ever refer to with pride and satisfaction. Many of her early settlers not only the descendants of Revolutionary soldiers but some were Revolutionary soldiers themselves. Referring to the latter, we copy the owing from the Sentinel of July 2, 1863: We had the pleasure of a call on Friday morning of last week from Mr, John Baker, a resident this county, who is now one hundred and three years old. He was a soldier of the Revolutionary war, and volunteered April 10, 1777, serving during the remainder of the war. He belonged the "Maryland Blues," under Col. Hammond Gen. Ridgely. He knew Gen. Washington and was present at his funeral. Mr. Baker was also a soldier of the war of 1812, and was stationed at Fort McHenry, etc." Just what number among the early settlers were Revolutionary soldiers, we have no means of knowing. But coming to the country as early as 1808-10, a little more than a quarter of a century after the close of the Revolution, it is altogether probable that they included quite a number of the patriots of the war for independence. So far, we have obtained the names of the following Revolutionary soldiers, but whether these are all, we are unable to say: John Stilly, Jacob Foust, William Munson, Ebenezer Wood, Alexander Dixon, Sr., John Baker, Reuben Martin, Alexander Kin-man, Eben Holt, Lodwick Hardenbrook, William Lockhart.

The impoverished Government for which they had fought long and faithfully had no other means of rewarding its soldiers, than to pay them in Western lands, and thus many of them found homes in Ohio, the lands of which territory was then coming into market. Many others, however, were poor, and had not the means of reaching their Western homes, and were forced to sell them for whatever they could get for them, thereby deriving but little benefit from what was intended by the Government to be a munificent bounty. But these facts are all matters of history, and do not really belong to the history of Morrow County. They are only mentioned as illustrative of the germ of patriotism planted in the citizens of the county which has grown and flourished with the advancing years.

In the Indian wars of the frontier, and the war of 1812, the territory now embraced in Morrow County comprised but a handful of settlers, but these came forward with a hearty good will. They took down the old flint-lock fowling pieces used by their fathers at Trenton, Brandywine, Monmouth, Saratoga and Yorktown, and whether contending with the well-trained legions of KinGeorge, in the open fields, according to the rules of civilized warfare, or fighting the red man in his own way-popping away at each other from behind trees and rocks, their valor was the same ; their bravery of a quality worthy of being transmitted to their descendants. A company was raised. in the north part of Delaware which contained several men from what is now Morrow County, but at that time embraced in Delaware County. It is impossible to obtain the names of all who served in the war of 1812 from this section, after the lapse of so many years. Among them we may mention, however, the names of William ship, and is noted for his positive character and remarkable memory, especially of pioneer history. James Trindle, of Pennsylvania, another soldier of 1812, and who was conspicuous for his bravery in Drake's defeat, came about this time, and settled one mile north of the site of the village of Westfield. He received the patent for his land from the hand of James Madison, the President, whose signature it bears under date of February 15, 1811. Josiah Goodhue came next, and settled on the west bank of the river, just opposite the point where Cook had located. Daniel Peak, another soldier of 1812, with his sons Ziba and Richard, came in 1819 and settled on the school section. Two years later, Jacob Conklin, still another soldier, and, as well as Peak, a native of Vermont, located on an adjoining track. From Liberty Township, where he had first located, be followed the Indian trail to a point known as Windsor's Corners, whence he diverged, and, cutting his own road two miles north and fording the Whetstone, he reached his land, now owned by his son Edwin. The road be thus opened up is the south part of what is now known as the Claridon road. He wits a resident of the township fifty-four years, and died at the age of eighty seven. His widow survives him, and, although in her eighty-second year, her mind is clear, and she loves to recount the happy experiences of her pioneer life, amid toil and hardships, or how they used to gather in the humble cabin of the settler to hear those men of God, the pioneer preachers, tell of that house "not made with hands,"

" In thoughts that breathe, and words that burn."

The Fousts, John, Abraham and Samuel, all came into the township not far from this time, and all had been in the " last war" with Great Britain. Samuel, now the only surviving one, although but ten years of age, drove a team, and was with Gen. Harrison at Fort Seneca when the battle was fought at Lower Sandusky, and could hear the firing. Abraham served under Gen. McArthur, and, while at Detroit, was taken sick, and, not relishing hospital life, contrary to orders, crossed over into the city and boarded with a family consisting of a French woman and her husband, the former of whom took quite an interest in the young soldier and was the means of saving his life. For several days, the old lady was observed to have long conversations with her husband, whose sympathies were with the British. The subject of these talks, which were in French, seemed to be young Foust. At last his benefactress warned him to flee at once, as a plot had been laid to take his scalp, and he was then glad to submit to the inconveniences of hospital life. During the war of 1812, Jonathan Shaw, the original pioneer joined the army of Gen. Harrison and, during the exciting times, his family and those of the other settlers at Shaw Town so called not because of any village located there, but because of the numerous families of Shaws there located, would often take refuge in the block-house at Fort Morrow at the Wyatt settlement, where they would sometimes remain for weeks.

On one of these occasions a company of rangers, passing through that settlement and finding the people gone, helped themselves to a plentiful supply of honey from the hives of John Shaw, Sr., and, when they had feasted, they made a target of a tree near the house for rifle practice, and shot a number of bullets into it, which the boys on their return considered of so much value that they carefully cut them out.

Drake's defeat, which caused so much alarm to this section of the State. occurring within the limits of that vast tract called Marlborough Township, which at that time included this, and as a large number eighteen, then became a clerk in a store, for some time ; subsequently he worked on the farm by the mouth, about four years ; after his marriage with Miss Ruhl, he worked for Levering and Merwine about eight months, after which he began farming on the lands of H. H. Rub], where he has lived ever since ; in 1874 he purchased eighty acres of land. Four children have been born to them-Eva, born Sept. 24, 1866; Hernia, April 21, 1872 ; Idella, Nov. 17, 1874 ; Heilman H., March 2, 1880. He and his wife -are members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

REV. J. F. SIMONS, farmer, and dealer in agricultural implements; P. O., Levering; is the second son of Frederick and Elizabeth (Hardman) Simons; he was born Oct. 28, 1825, in Bedford Co., Penn.; he went to school about three months per year until sixteen, when he received instruction in an Academy in Cumberland Co., Md., for nearly two years; by close application, he so carefully employed his advantages here that he responsible work of teaching, which he successfully followed for four terms in his native county, working in a tannery during vacation; being twenty-three years of age, he was filled with a desire to visit the West and find a new and larger field for his energies; accordingly, he joined his uncle, Jacob Hardman, early in the spring of 1848, and they arrived at McFarren's, of Perry Tp., Richland Co., Ohio, March 19; he taught school that summer, and took a tour through Indiana, visiting various points of interest; he returned and taught school in the Lamb District the following winter; he married Catharine A. Wirick, Feb. 11, 1849. She is the second daughter of Peter and Deborah (Huntsman) Wirick, born in Perry Tp., Richland Co., on the 16th of September, 1826. After marriage, Mr. Simons lived on McFarren's farm one year; in the fail of 1849, he purchased his present farm of 80 acres, all in the woods then. The next year a hewed log house was erected where the present handsome frame structure now stands. Here they have lived and toiled for thirty years. The following year after he settled, he planted a fine orchard and sowed six acres of wheat. His own labor has removed sixty acres of heavy timber, and erected the substantial buildings of the present. In 1856 there was an almost total failure of the wheat crop in some localities, from the ravages of the weevil, making breadstuffs scarce. Mr. Simons hauled timber to Mt. Vernon, for which he received in payment a ten-dollar bill; he purchased a barrel of flour with it in Mansfield, and started home; he was soon overtaken by merchant, who claimed the bill was counterfeit, and on taking the bill to the lumber dealer, he denied giving it to him, and as a consequence, Mr. Simons lost the much-needed sum; he is a Democrat, and has assessed this township, and served on its Board of Education. For some time past he has effected extensive sales of D. M. Osborne Company's Agricultural Implements, in this arid Richland and Knox counties. He early united with the Disciple Church, and has been a faithful minister in its ranks for a number of years. His wife and seven of the children are within the sacred fold of the same church. Peter Wirick, the father of Mrs. Simons, is one of the few pioneers yet living whose vivid recollections extend back over more than a half century of thrilling scenes and great privations. To his grand- daughter, Miss Mary E. Simons, we are indebted for the following sketch of this remarkable man's life: Peter Wirick, oldest son of John and Elizabeth Wirick, was born in

FAUST/FOUST HISTORY

Document received from Cuba Faust Vance 1973

The Romans were many long years if not centuries in advance of the surrounding nations in civilization, were proud of their citizenship, and considered that to be a Roman was greater than to be a king.

After the year 395 two emperors ruled the Roman Empire, one at Constantinople, in the East, and the other at Rome, in the West.

Faustus, the son of Sulla, was the division commander under Pompey, his father-in-law, at the siege of Jerusalem, in the year of 67 B.C., and in its capture was the first to mount the walls of the city, according to Josephus, the famous historian(lib.B.C.8)

About the year 800, when first or Christian names came into general use, perhaps a reminder of their lineage, for Christian names, the Fausts gave their sons the names of famous Romans, and these Roman Christian names were continued by descendants down through the centuries and for at least several generations after the first Fausts arrived in Pennsylvania.

Before the Reformation in Germany, the Fausts were Catholics. The Pope resided at Rome. Saint Peter was the first Pope. Peter is a favorite Faust Christian name. There were five Popes named Nicholas, another Faust Christian name. Nicholas Faust arrived in 1750 and settled in Somerset County, Pennsylvania. There were seven emperors in the East, at Constantinople, named Michael, one more Faust Christian name.

The first Michael Faust arrived in 1733 and the second one in 1753.

Henry, a Faust Christian name, is the name of several German emperors in the seventh century, which is about the time that the Fausts went into Germany(See Robinson's Western Europe.)

The tradition in the Faust family is that five brothers and their families arrived in Pennsylvania from Germany in 1733, and that at intervals of only a few years "cousins"continued to arrive for many years thereafter, all of which seems to be confirmed by official records. They seldom located close together, but kept well posted by doing much letter writing.

John Peter Foust and his son Daniel went from Pennsylvania to North Carolina before 1763. Their descendants became wealthy planters and slave owners, were volunteers in the Revolutionary War and also in the Civil War. A number of the North Carolina Fousts of the present day are college professors. Mr. William P. Foust, of Los Angeles, Calif., has our thanks for this information.

Julius Isaac Foust, Ph.D.,LL.D., has been president of the North Carolina College for Women, at Greensboro,N.C., for twenty-five years.

The Fausts in Georgia, most probably descendants of Balthaser Faust, in York County,

"Mr. C.F. Hell of Hazelton has an old document. Release of John Philip Faust and w. Catherine for land in Greenwich to Christophel Rooth of Maxatawney. Michael the father of Christophel Rooth took out a wt. for 150a in Maxatawney in 1739. (The Michael Roeth here may have some connection with the Michael Ruth of the emigrant lists.)

(Board Property)
Dec. 24, 1771. George Gerlach entered caveat against survey for 70a land in Greenwich Twp. Berks to Henry Faust dated Dec.11 last--says has a prior right.

Jan.28,1772. Gerlach vs. Henry Faust. Lengthy testimony. T. Gerlach survey was bounded on the east by land surv. for Philip Faust, the father of Henry. But by what authority does not apply. Faust says that his father Philip obtained a wt. dated Mar. 25 1738 under which he had surv. upwards of 250a and another the 22nd of Oct. 1746 under which he had 80a surv. and that he purchased from some other man whose name Henry known not about 50a etc.

Mar.31,1772. Gerlach vs. Faust. James Scull who had been ordered to report on the dispute. Appears that the land Gerlach caveated does not interfere with his at of Nov. But that the 53a land survey for Gerlach under the wt. in the year 1748 for Philip Faust, father of the s. Henry appears by the field notes of Edward Scull, and that it cleared on this land by Philip Faust in his life time meadow and 13a of plow land and by Henry Faust ca 7 But it does not appear that the Fausts had any wt. for on the whole considering the improvements made by Faust their lengthy possession and the fact that thing for surveys to be made at that time in anticipation of a wt., it is thought best to give Faust a wt. to accept the survey of 1748 made for his father and that Gerlach's wt. money be returned and that Faust pay Gerlach the expense of surveying.

JOHANN PHILIP FAUST

Johann Jacob Faust(son of Philip I) came to America with his father as a child when four years of age, Aug. 27, 1733; he was therefore b. ca. the year 1729. He first lived in Richmond Township, then Greenwich, then Windsor in Berks County. In the year 1788 he patented a large tract of land on the Mahaney which he had previously purchased on warrant and he then moved on the new land which years afterward proved to be one of the most fabulous and productive tracts of the Mahaney Coal Field, the Mertz and Flower tracts which include the site of the present town of Girardville. However, Jacob Faust was to know nothing of this; he died in the year 1794(or 1795) and the estate was settled in Northumberland County. He had 14 children of whom 13 were living at the time of his death. His wife's name was Veronica(Fronica).

FAUST/FOUST HISTORY
Document received from Cuba Faust Vance 1973

The Romans were many long years if not centuries in advance of the surrounding nations in civilization, were proud of their citizenship, and considered that to be a Roman was greater than to be a king.

After the year 395 two emperors ruled the Roman Empire, one at Constantinople, in the East, and the other at Rome, in the West.

Faustus, the son of Sulla, was the division commander under Pompey, his father-in-law, at the siege of Jerusalem, in the year of 67 B.C., and in its capture was the first to mount the walls of the city, according to Josephus, the famous historian(lib.B.C.8)

About the year 800, when first or Christian names came into general use, perhaps a reminder of their lineage, for Christian names, the Fausts gave their sons the names of famous Romans, and these Roman Christian names were continued by descendants down through the centuries and for at least several generations after the first Fausts arrived in Pennsylvania.

Before the Reformation in Germany, the Fausts were Catholics. The Pope resided at Rome. Saint Peter was the first Pope. Peter is a favorite Faust Christian name. There were five Popes named Nicholas, another Faust Christian name. Nicholas Faust arrived in 1750 and settled in Somerset County, Pennsylvania. There were seven emperors in the East, at Constantinople, named Michael, one more Faust Christian name.

The first Michael Faust arrived in 1733 and the second one in 1753.

Henry, a Faust Christian name, is the name of several German emperors in the seventh century, which is about the time that the Fausts went into Germany(See Robinson's Western Europe.)

The tradition in the Faust family is that five brothers and their families arrived in Pennsylvania from Germany in 1733, and that at intervals of only a few years "cousins"continued to arrive for many years thereafter, all of which seems to be confirmed by official records. They seldom located close together, but kept well posted by doing much letter writing.

John Peter Foust and his son Daniel went from Pennsylvania to North Carolina before 1763. Their descendants became wealthy planters and slave owners, were volunteers in the Revolutionary War and also in the Civil War. A number of the North Carolina Fousts of the present day are college professors. Mr. William P. Foust, of Los Angeles, Calif., has our thanks for this information.

Julius Isaac Foust, Ph.D.,LL.D., has been president of the North Carolina College for Women, at Greensboro,N.C., for twenty-five years.

The Fausts in Georgia, most probably descendants of Balthaser Faust, in York County, arrived there from Pennsylvania in 1793. Fire destroyed the early records.

Philip Faust, great grandfather of Henry E. Faust, settled in Buffalo Valley, near Mifflinburg, Union County, Pa., shortly before 1820. Henry, a brother, located near artleton, 8 to 10 miles farther west. The valley is about 20 miles long, very fertile, and has an average width of 4 to 5 miles. It is a thrifty dairy region now.

In the colonial days, Buffalo Valley was the thoroughfare of Chief Shickelimy and other friendly Indians at Shmokin in making excursions to their hunting grounds around Bellefonte, a locality which they called "bel-le fon-te", meaning, in the Indian language, "beautiful fountain," so named on account of the immense "Boiling" spring there whose waters unite in about equal volume with the waters of Spring Creek and flow thru the town now in a channel fully 50 feet wide and 2 to 3 feet deep and furnish a habitation for trout of several varieties, easily seen from the bridge near the Pennsylvania Railroad station. Fresh ground beef thrown into the water will bring a multitude of them to the surface in a hurry. The largest of the trout are close to two feet long.

Buffaloes inhabiteds the beaver meadows in Buffalo Valley as late as 1736, the colonial records disclose. This was only a generation before Northumberland was formed into a separate county in 1772 and settlers commenced to cross the Susquehanna and invade the eastern part of the Buffalo Valley. Thomas Lemon was appointed judge of the new court of justice at Sunbury, nearby, and was succeded the following year by Michael Troy, his partner in real estate business and the great grandfather of John, Samuel, and Mary Troy, early residents of Center County. In 1777, according to Bell's History of Northumberland County, Michael Troy was reappointed judge of Northumberland County for a period of seven years. The wagon road from Sunbury and Lewisburg went through Buffalo Valley to Bellefonte, the outpost of civilization then, was constructed in 1769. Penn's Creek is a popular camping and fishing locality in the western part of the valley, and deer roam over a wide range of barren land close by.

Auburn, in memory, perhaps of "Sweet Auburn, lovliest village of the plain," in northern Schuylkill County, was originally called "Faustville," but one by one the Fausts all moved away and the name gradually changed to "Auburn". Milton, in western Northumberland County, built on the homestead of Philip Foust, has a similar experience. It was first called "Foust Town."

Jacob and Abraham Faust at Llewellyn were sons of Jacob in West Brunswick, and he was the nephew of the Jacob who died at Catawissa in 1794, whose father was Jacob in Greenwich, a son of Phillip in Bern.

John Faust was the preacher at Shoenersville, upper Lehigh County, from1780 to 1792, according to the old county histories. As nothing more appears in the histories concerning him, it is reasonable to presume that his ministry was the crowning act of his earthly labors and that is is entitled to the honor of being the first minister of the gospel in the Faust family in Pennsylvania.

M. E. Faust is an insurance adjuster in Los Angeles, California. It might not be generally known, but only men of the highest integrity are ever even considered for a position of that kind.

Dr. R.F. Shaner is filling the important position of demonstrator of anatomy in the medical department of the University of Alaberta, at Edmonton, Province of Alberta, in western in western Canada. He is a native of Montgomery County, Pa. The maiden name of his mother was Faust.

A.D.Faust & Sons engaged in the tannery business at Mount Union,Pa. in 1873. Richard J. Faust was one of the firm and the business manager until his death, in 1884. In 1876, the rival tannery there was sold at sheriff's sale. They bought it and operated both plants until 1908, when the well-established business was sold to other people.

Elmer J. Faust is one of the real business men in Allentown, a city close to 100,000 people, in eastern Pennsylvania.

Robert V. Faust is editor and proprietor of the Herald, at Weatherly, Carbon county, Pa., and is always interested in family history.

Hon. Charles L. Faust was the Congressman from St. Jsoeph (Missouri) district when he died in 1928, while serving his fourth term in Congress. He was born in Ohio in 1879, and was a lawyer by profession.

David Faust, the Philadelphia banker, died in 1907, aged 92 years. In a modest interview, published in a Philadelphia daily newspaper some thirty years ago, he furnished the information that follows:

He was a son of Jonas and a grandson of John Philip Faust, and was born on a farm at Catasauqua, upper Lehigh County. After clerking in country stores for three years, he went to Philadelphia in 1833 and commenced clerking in a hardware store in which he afterwards became a partner. Fortune smiled on his first venture in business, as Faust, Winebrenner & Co., dealers in hardware, which the firm became and continued very prosperous as David Faust & Co. in

FIRST FAUSTS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Faust is a name that can be traced back through the misty centuries to the days of Sulla, Dictator at Rome in the year 82 B.C. In the year 88 B.C., he became the father of twins. One was named Faustus, and the other Fausta, the latin forms of the name Faust denoting male and female.

The custom of giving children a different name from that of the father was not uncommon in ancient times. Alexander the Great was a son of Philip. Socrates was a son of Sophroniscus. Solon's father was Euphorion. Brutus was a son of M. Junius, and was called Brutus on account of his stupidity.

Faustus, the son of Sulla, married the daughter of Pompey the Great, the handsomest man in all Italy, and from that famous union, uniting two of the most distinguished families in ancient Rome, all the Fausts and Fousts of the present day have descended. (The author desires to thank Mr. John Murray, of London, England, publisher of Sir William Smith's Classical Dictionary, a high authority, for permission to print the above statements, taken from that publication.)

(For an extended account of Faustus, his marriage, children, military exploits, etc. see Sir William Smith's "Classical Dictionary, 23rd London edition (1925), Volume II, page 942. See also "Sulla" or Sylla" and Pompey" in Plutarch's lives.)

Fausta was the name of the wife of Constantine the Great, the first Roman emperor, who professed and established the Christian religion (A.D.313) among his one hundred million pagan subjects, who spoke many languages in the 120 provinces of the empire, which was according to Gibbon, the eminent historian, more than 3,000 miles long and 2,000 miles wide.

Other Roman empresses, famous for their beauty and intelligences, were scions of the Faust family tree and rulers of the social realm in the second century, the most flourishing period of

Several centuries later, Bishop Faustus at Carthage, whose eloquence is embalmed in the confessions of St. Augustine and also briefly in Draper's Intellectual Development of europe, page 229, and Faustus of Ries, Bishop of Belgium, but a native of France, attracted general attention while expounding their religious views in the fifth century.

From all the foregoing, it is clearly evident that the name Faust is of Latin origin, and hence carries with it the pronunciation of the language from which it comes, which is F-au-s-t(See Century Dictionary), as the of "au" in both Latin and English is the same as the word "caught" or as the short "o" in the word "on".

After the fall of the Roman Empire in the West(A.D. 476 at some unknown period, the Fausts crossed the northern border of Switzerland, a former Roman province, into Germany, and from there, they came to America.

The good ship "Elizabeth," the Christian name of many Fausts since then, arrived at Philadelphia on August 27, 1733, with seventeen Fausts among its passengers. Others came later. (See Pennsylvania Archives, Series 2, Volume 17.)

They came, according to family tradition, from Swabia, a large part of the very extensive and densely-populated province of Wurttemberg, a garden spot in southern Germany.(See "Swabia," in Hallam's Middle Ages of Europe.)

(Copies of official german records translated, in the possession of Mr. Oliver C. Faust, in business at Nos.27-29 Gainsborough Street, Boston, Mass., show that the Fausts, a hundred years before coming to America were still patricians, were largely business and professional men and some were mayors of cities in Germany in which they lived.)

Peter Faust located in Frederick Township, Montgomery county. Henry, a grandson, was a lieutenant in the Revolutionary War. (See Pennsylvania Archives, Series 2, Volume 13, p. 757.) Abraham Faust located in Lower Milford Township, Lehigh County; George Faust, Manheim Township, Lancaster County; John Peter Faust, Brunswick Township, Schuylkill County, and Philip Faust, Bern Township, Berks County.

(Gutenberg and Faust gave to the world the invention of printing. It was a priceless gift, made them benefactors of mankind, and placed their names among the immortals. A few years before 1450, while walking through a forest in germany, and amusing himself by carving his name on the bark of trees, Johann Gutenberg conceived the idea of printing by means of movable type. The secret was imparted to John Faust, a wealthy merchant, who entered into the partnership with Gutenberg and furnished the money to develop the idea and make it a success, and thus the name of Faust became so inseparably connected with the invention of printing, the greatest of all inventions, that printers have ever since been known as disciples of Gutenberg and Faust.

Whether the first Fausts in Pennsylvania were or were not descendants of the John Faust who was Gutenberg's partner is a matter that will be left with the reader to decide for himself at his leisure, but, be that as it may, for some unknown reason,and seemingly as if to revere the memory of some distinguished ancestor, John was the name given the first son of all the early Fausts in Pennsylvania.

In 1767, the first official tax records of Berks County locate the Fausts as follows: Jacob, Adam, and Henry, Greenwich Township; Peter, Anthony, and Michael, Heidelberg Township; Philip and John, Bern Township, and Sebastian, Albany Township.(See Pa. Archives, series 3,Vol.18.)

It will be observed that some of the above names look decidedly Bibical, but Philip, Sebastian, and Anthony are old Roman names beyond question. Philip was a Roman emperor, Sebastian was a famous martyr at Rome, and Mark Antony was the most popular Roman of his day.

The first census in 1790 locates the Fausts in Pennsylvania as follows. First figure following name denotes father and males over 16 years, second figure males under 16, and third figure all females:

Berks County: Albany Twp.-Sebastian, 1, 2, 5. Bern, from which Upper Bern Center, Penn, and Tilden have since been taken- John, 2, 1, 2; John Jr., 1, 1, 1; Philip, 1, 2, 3; Ludwig, 1, 1, 3 and 1 other person; Anthony, 2, 2, 3; Philip, 1, 2, 5, Greenwich- Adam 3,3, 2. Tulpehocken- John, 2, 3, 4. Windsor, from which Perry was taken-Killian, 1,0,1.

Brunswick and Manheim, now in Schuylkill County-Peter, 1, 0, 3; Jacob, 2, 3, 5.

Bedford, now is Somerset County-Adam, 1, 1, 3; Nicholas, 1, 0, 8.

Franklin County-George, 2, 2, 3; Philip, 1, 2, 4.

Lancaster County-John, 1, 1, 3.

Montgomery County-Henry, 1, 2, 4; Peter, 1, 1, 4; Niccholas, 1, 0,2.

Northumberland County-Jacob Sr., 3, 1, 6; Jacob Jr., 1, 2, 2; Sebastian, 1,0, 1.

Northampton County-Henry, 2, 2, 2; Philip, 1, 0, 5.

York County: Shrewsbury-Balhaser, 1,2, 4 and 1 slave. York-John, 1, 1,3 and 2 other persons. (A few families of Fausts were in North Carolina in 1790.)

The Fausts were very religious people, and came from long-lived stock. The men were big six-footers, were hard workers, money makers, and big land owners, and made frequent purchases and sales of land. Several in successive generations in Berks County were blacksmiths and owned very large farms, but soon after the close of the Revolutionary War they commenced to leave Berks County, and long before the Civil War, there were Fausts in Minnesota, Missouri, New Orleans, and California.

The name in Pennsylvania was at first spelled Foust, but now it is very generally spelled Faust all over the United States.

"John Faust arrived in Rush Township about 1820." The old histories of Schuylkill County also state that he was a man of means and influence and built and furnished two school houses, which he gave to the township for free use for ten years and insisted that English as well as German be taught in them.

A.B. Faust is professor of German in Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. and is also author of the German element in the United States, a work of exceptional merit that has been translated into the German language.

The great Catholic University at Washington D.C. sends annually two of its most brilliant professors to the Pacific Coast to do advanced summer educational work and incidentally advertise that famous educational institution. T.W. Brockbank is the name of one of the professors who made these trips for several years. The maiden name of his mother was Faust. (Lack of space prevents referring to others. Many of the Fausts are prominent business and professional men in various cities now, and some are presidents of banks.)

Form Michael Faust at Reading in 1775 to Jacob Faust of Bellefonte in 1861-nearly a hundred years-Fausts were early volunteers in all principal wars that intervened, and in more recent wars the volunteer records tell us that the reputation of the family was amply maintained by the past and present generations.

Philip Faust, one of the founders of the family in Pennsylvania, was born in Germany in 1703, and died in 1767. He was a farmer and lumberman in Bern Township, and was very prosperous. Sebastian Faust, of Albany Township, was his youngest son and a Revolutionary War Soldier.

Michael, a nephew of Philip Faust, enlisted in the Revolutionary War at Reading in June 1775, and was in Captain George Nagel's Company at Cambridge, the army headquarters, near Boston, on July 18, fifteen days after Washington took command of the army there, participated in the disastrous battle of Long Island on August 27, 1776, in which over 800 Americans were taken prisoners and all of the company records were lost, and, after carrying a musket for nearly six long years, was discharged from the army, cause not stated, in 1781.(See Pa. Archives, Series 2, Vol.5, pages 39 and 673.) He died in 1791. (The names of the members of Captain George Nagel's Company appear on a bronze tablet on the front of the courthouse at Reading under the title "The First Defenders of the Nation.")

Adam, one of the sons of Philip Faust, made the supreme sacrifice at Valley Forge is the way it comes to us by tradition, partly verified by official records. Anna Louisa, his wife, was appointed administratrix of his estate on February 23, 1778, according to the Reading courthouse records.

Henry, another son of Philip Faust, enlisted in 1776 and served under Captain Daniel De Tarck.(See Pa. Archives, Series 3, Vol. 23, P. 245.) His son Philip served under Captain Jacob Clater. (See Pa. Archives, Series 5, Vol.8, p.279.)

Henry, another son of the above Henry, served under Captain Sebastian Miller. (See Pa. Archives, Series 5, Vol.23, p.211.) John, oldest son of the first Henry and another grandson of Philip Faust, enlisted in 1778, was seriously wounded in 1780, and was finally discharged from the army on account of his injuries in 1781. (See Pa. Archives, Series 2, vol. 13, p.68.)

Other sons and grandsons of Philip Faust are credited with Revolutionary War service, but the records are very incomplete, as many of the master rolls, the only record ever in existence, with the names of thousands of soldiers, were lost forever, when the British burned the Capitol and Congressional Library at Washington in 1814.

Jacob Faust, a son of the first Philip Faust, was a farmer and business man in Greenwich Township and served in the Revolutionary War as an ensign under Colonel John White.(See Archives, Pa. Series 5, Vol. 8, P. 68.)

Philip Faust, one of the sons of the preceding Jacob, lost his life in the rounding up of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va., is the family tradition that has been handed down, and Jacob, Philip, and Henry, three of his children, were reared by their uncle Jacob, a lumber jobber at Catawissa, Pa., when he died there in 1794.

Philip Faust, a son of the last-named Philip Faust, was a farmer and lumberman, and died in Union County in very comfortable circumstances on June 25, 1839, aged 66. His wife(Magdalena) died in 1854, aged 80. Both are buried in the cemetery at Mifflinburg, near the South Fifth Street entrance.

Anna Maria, Magdalena, Catherine, and Esther are the names of his four daughters. He had seven sons: Samuel was a business man in Pottsville, and died there in 1865. Abraham, John, Michael, and Philip went West to the neighborhood of Akron,Ohio, where mrs. Daniel Kauffman, Polly, Mrs. Sebastian Witmer, and other relatives, descendants of Henry, resided. Jacob and George, the well-known hotel man, lived in center County, and are buried at Potter's Bank, near Bellefonte.

Jacob Faust,oldest son of the last-named Philip Faust, was a well-to-do farmer, over six feet in height, and a man absolutely without fear. Fifty years and more have passed since he closed his eyes on earthly scenes, yet he is still remembered for his industry, his generosity, and his activity in educational affairs. He was born on January 25, 1794, and died near Potter's Bank, on September 26, 1874, aged 80. He was married in 1819 to Mary Troy, a daughter of John C. Troy. John Troy, her grandfather, was a seafaring man, was master of the vessel "Snow Hibernia"(See Pa. Archives, Series 5, Vol.1,p.887)but served in the Revolutionary War in the york County Militia.(See Pa. Archives, Series 5, Vol. 4,P.480.) She died in 1853, aged 55, and is buried to the left side of the older part of the large cemetery at Gillintown, near Snow Shoe, Center County.

On President Lincoln's first call for troops on April 20, 1861, when 67 years of age, Jacob Faust enlisted in Company I, Fifteenth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, according to the bronze tablet soldiers' roll in front of the court house at Bellefonte.

Michael Smith, of Potter's Bank, was personally acquainted with Jacob Faust, and although long, long past three score years and ten is still going strong, and remembers well when the soldiers left in '61, and also remembers hearing old men tell about Jacob Faust doctoring a family who were all down with the smallpox. The family lived two miles from where Jacob lived, and every person was afraid to go near them, but Jacob went back and forth every day from his own home, changed his clothes in his barn on going and returning(it was in the dead of winter), cooked for them and gave them medicine and saved every one, using only "home-remedies" and common sense.

Jacob Faust was educated in German schools, and like his father, Philip Faust, spelled his name Foust, in order to give it the german pronunciation, but all of his children spelled their name Faust. Following are their names: Jacob, Daniel, Roland Curtin, Harry Essick(descendants at Los Angeles, California), Catherine, Lucy, Sarah, Molly, Sophia, and Salina. He has but one great grandson by the name of Faust, who is living at the present time, Roland C. Faust, in business at Dayton,Pa.

HISTORY OF FRANKLIN & PICKAWAY COUNTIES, OHIO
Published by Williams Bros. 1880

P.253 In 1808 David Foust settled where Adelphi now stands, and a few years after moved to Circleville. He built the old courthouse there. He finally returned to Salt Creek and died here. He was the father of ten children. His son, Joseph, now nearly eighty years of age, lives in this township.

Jacob Foust came to Ohio in a very early day, as early as 1800, and lived in Salt Creek for a number of years, on section twenty-five, when he moved to Delaware County, seven miles above the village of Delaware. He finally settled near Cardington, Morrow(then Marion) County, where he died in 1842, his wife surviving him some three years.

Andrew Foust, now living at Tarlton, was the youngest of eleven children. He came to Pickaway County and learned the carpenter's trade, after which he married, in May 1831, and settled on the line in Fairfield County, near where John H. Zaring now lives, west of Tarlton. About twenty years ago he moved to this township, locating in Tarlton, where he has since resided. He was elected to State Legislature in 1844, as a Democratic representative from Fairfield County, and re-elected in 1845. In 1850, he was elected State Senator, serving one term. During his residence in Fairfield he served as Justice of the Peace twenty one years, and in this township two terms. He is now seventy years of age. (SALT CREEK TOWNSHIP) p.252. Abram Dreisbach died at the home of his son-in-law Joseph Foust about the year 1840.

P.302 Henry Dreisbach learned the carpenter's trade of Joseph Foust.

CARDINGTON TOWNSHIP

Among the earliest of those that came in at this time, 1822, were the Foust families. Jacob Faust Jr., had come early to Peru with his brother John, and came through this locality as early as 1814 with the surveyor that ran out the Delaware and Mansfield road. Later their father Jacob Foust Sr., with the rest of the family, came and took up residence in Peru. The family was originally from Berks County, Penn., and first settled in Muskingum County. In 1822 desiring to find more room, they came to Cardington Township, Jacob Foust Sr., entering a farm on the high bank of the Whetstone, where Jonas now lives (1880). The house, situated on the high bank of the creek, overlooks the long stretch of bottom lands lying to the north. Michael Ely entered an eighty acre farm on lot 28, east of the Fousts.

Among the early settlers, Jonas Foust was considered a great hunter and a crack shot. It is related of Jonas, that after hunting all day with a "crack shot" by the name of Blizzard, the latter proposed to shoot at a mark for the hides. To this Foust readily assented, and the contest began. A bullet was shot into a tree for a mark, and five bullets were put into the single hole made by the first ball, when Blizzard's weapon hung fire and varied his ball sufficient to break the circle and defeat him. This would be considered very good markmanship, shooting "off-hand" at a hundred yards, in this day.

Zanesville was the source of supply for salt, glass and iron. Jacob Foust Sr. used to make the journey with an ox team and wagon, consuming about eight days on the journey, and bringing back four or five barrels as the limit of a load which could safely be put in a wagon for one yoke of cattle to draw. The arrival of such a load in a neighborhood put the whole population in commotion, and salt was readily sold for 15 dollars per barrel, the purchase consideration being paid in barter or work. Those journeys, until the older settlements were reached, were made through improvised trails through the woods, frequently without blazed trees for guides. The Delaware and Mansfield road was soon chopped out and a connecting link between the old and new land thus established. The road from Marion to Delaware was early blazed out in a unique fashion. The road had been regularly run out as far as Haven's mill in Claridon, and from there Jonas Foust, who had been to mill, turned his horse loose and following him home, he blazed the trees with his tomahawk along the path his horse took.

Covered bridges date back to Biblical Times. Americans started building bridges shortly after the Revolutionary War, when shipwrights and engineers created trusses of thick timber bearing the marks of the adz, the pit saw and hand tools. Most of the joints were fitted as well as those of fine cabinet work.

Why are the bridges covered? Were they shelter from storms? "Tunnel of Love?" The bridges were covered to protect the wooden trusses.

Fires, floods and vandalism as well as age have taken their toll of our cherished covered bridges. They still hold the interest of those historically minded.[1]

Langdon's wife died here very soon (which was probably the first event of the kind in the township), and he left this vicinity, going West. Sherman, being obliged to move by the purchasers of the land, squatted again on the Singer place, and later succeeded in securing a little farm of forty acres. Bunker's operations were well known in the settlement of Peru, and created quite an excitement among those who were not satisfactorily situated at that place. The natural result was that in the fall of 1822 there was an extensive migration from that point to various parts of the new township. Among the earliest of those that came in at this time were the Foust families. Jacob Foust, Jr., had come early to Peru with his brother John, and came through this locality as early as 1814 with the surveyor that ran out the Delaware and Mansfield road. Later their father, Jacob Foust, Sr., with the rest of the family, came and took up their residence in Peru. The family was originally from Berks County, Penn., and settled first in Muskingum County. In 1822, desiring to find more room, they came to Cardington, Jacob Foust, Sr., entering a farm on the banks of the Whetstone, where Jonas now lives. The house, situated on the high bank of the creek, overlooks the long stretch of bottom lands lying to the north, presenting a view that is charming in its picturesqueness. Just west of this farm, near the same stream, Jacob, Jr., erected his cabin, just north of the treaty line, in the southwest quarter of the township. Another family was that of the Elys. They came originally from Pennsylvania to Sunbury Township, in Delaware County, where they remained until the summer of 1822, when Michael, with his son Peter and his family, came to Cardington, and entered an eighty-acre farm on Lot 28, east of the Fousts, where the elder Ely lived until his death. The farm is now owned by Jonathan Kester. Closely following this family, came Isaac Bowyer. It is believed that this family came originally from Virginia to Perry County, and from there to where his son Isaac now resides. He built a saw mill on Shaw Creek in 1830, which he operated for some ten or fifteen years. The stream is sluggish, with low banks, and the dam backed the water up for a considerable distance, and caused the water to overflow a number of farms, resulting, it is said, in considerable sickness, the condition of the country being productive of miasmatic troubles at the time.

Among the Peru families that came about this time was that of John Keese. He had formerly been an extensive dealer in lumber in Clinton, N. Y., owning a considerable tract of land where Keeseville now stands. During the war of 1812 he was engaged in rafting lumber to Montreal, but lost a large amount, which broke him up and drove him West in hope of repairing his fortunes. He was an intelligent person and possessed something of a philosophical mind, but his reverses had broken him down so much that he never retrieved himself. He came early to Peru, and there married his second wife, the first occasion of the kind in that township. On coming to Cardington, he located on a farm owned now by Henry W. Curl, in Section 18, in the western middle part of the township. He lived here until his death, some years after which event his son Richard sold to Curl and returned to Peru, where he died about 1875. In the early part of the following winter—1822–23—Peleg Bunker—whose wife was a Benedict, and had been the means of his coming to the early settlement in Peru—came to Cardington, settling on the land now owned by Elizabeth McKeown. He was originally from New York, belonged to the Society of Friends, and at a later day became prominent in the early manufacturing enterprises of the village. He came originally from New York State. Another important accession at this time was that of Cyrus Benedict, the founder of the Alum Creek settlement in Peru Township in 1809. Through his efforts the colony in Peru had gained a widespread reputation for industry and morality, and his coming augured well for the success of the new community. He entered the farm now owned by his grandsons, Cyrus E. and Sylvester Benedict, lying commoner luxuries, besides adding something of a variety to the homely fare of the frontier cabin. Trapping was another source of income that could be indulged in without detracting greatly from the necessary work of the clearing, but, as a matter of fact, it was found that it required the instinct of the true-born hunter to accomplish any respectable results from this sort of hunting. There were few animals save "coons" that were worth the bait, but in some seasons these animals were so numerous as to prove a nuisance to the growing crops, and a blessing to the hunter. Generally, however, five "coons" in a single night in favorable weather was a good catch. Their hides were worth about 25 cents apiece, and in this way many a frontier farmer procured the means to pay his taxes when all other resources had failed.

When the Indians sold their claim to the lands north of the boundary line, they were granted the privilege "to fish, fowl and hunt" in the territory, so long as it was Government land. The insecurity of this tenure could hardly be realized by the contracting savages, and the settlers, coming upon the scene almost as soon as the conditions were known, found them located upon the banks of the Whetstone, prepared to enjoy the privileges conceded, for some time to come. On the rising ground where Firstenbarger's residence stands, the first comers found a large village of the natives. It was composed of huts about eight feet long, built up on three sides with poles, and covered with bark tied on with poles and thongs. Two of these huts faced each other, the open sides fronting the huge fire which was built between them. The natives were members of the Wyandot, Seneca and Miami tribes, and their custom was to come down from their reservation early in April or May, and stay until time to plant corn, when they went to their reservation to put in their crops. After the harvest they came again for the fall hunt, and many of them frequently stayed all winter hunting and trapping. They treated the whites in the friendliest manner, and were never more delighted than when they could induce the whites to compete with them in feats of strength or endurance. The hunters among the whites were never loath to engage in these contests, and were quite as often victors as the natives. These periodical visits of the Indians were kept up for twelve or fifteen years after the coming of the whites, but the growing scarcity of game, and the more attractive solitudes of the "Northwestern Territory" gradually diminished their numbers, and they finally ceased their visits altogether.

The early community that settled in Cardington was largely made up of those who had known pioneer life in the adjacent settlements, and were better prepared to encounter the difficulties of their new home. These were not so great as those encountered a few years earlier, but, although not so completely isolated as were the earlier settlements of Delaware and Knox Counties, they experienced enough of the hardships and inconveniences of frontier life to impress us of a later day that it was a very serious business to clear up a new country. The nearest mills were in Marlborough and Peru Townships, the available tannery was Israel Hights, at Windsor Corners, and stores were only found at Delaware, Fredericktown, Mansfield and Marion. John Roy soon established a store at Mount Gilead, which with the mills established by Bunker relieved the settlers of the long journeys for the commonest necessities of life, but for salt, glass and iron, Zanesville still continued to be the only source of supply. To this point such of the settlers as were able to undertake the expense, made long pilgrimages through the woods for these indispensable articles. Jacob Foust, Sr., used to make the journey with an ox team and wagon, consuming about eight days on the journey, and bringing back four or five barrels as the limit of a load which could safely be put in a wagon for one yoke of cattle to draw. The arrival of such a load in a neighborhood put the whole population in commotion, and the salt was readily sold out at 15 dollars per barrel, the purchase consideration being paid in barter or work. WILLIAM P. FOUST: Son of John and Dorcas (Place) Foust was born in Delaware, now Morrow County, Ohio March 13th. 1827. He attended the usual schools at Westfield Ohio, and remained on the home farm until grown to manhood. He was married in Mt. Gilead, Ohio Nov. 14, 1850 to Miss Amy Payne. He followed farming and huckstering business as well as Carpenter for many years. He wasalso enrolling officer in Westfield Township during the war, having been, on account of ill hralth rejected for active service for which he volunteered. He now began practice of denistry, having extracted teeth with his father when but 14 years old. After receiving instructions in plate work from Mr. Thomas of Morrow County he exercised his at various points intil, in the spring of 1882, he came to Montpelier and began business with his son, Morgan, in a very proper manner, and they are successful. Mr. & Mrs. Foust have had 6 children, Morgan, Milton, Mary, Minnie, Minerva(Deceased) and Bird. Mrs, Foust is the daughter of Austin and Lucinda (Lyons) Payne, native of Vermont and now residing in Sunbury, Delaware County, Ohio the father being about 93 years of age and still quite strong and active.

ALBERT E. FOUST, for upward of half a century a resident of Hoaglin township, was born June 11, 1835, in that portion of Marion County, Ohio, which has since been designated as Morrow County. He is a son of Job and Sarah (Hardman) Foust, who died in this county many years ago. Job Foust was born in Marion County and was a son of Jacob Foust, who came there at a very early day from Pennsylvania. The former was married to Sarah Hardman, who was a Virginian by birth and remained in Marion County until 1856, when he located in Hoaglin township. Three children survive them, namely: Albert E.; Lucy, wife of Milton Hemlinger, of Defiance County, Ohio; and Chauncey M., of Indiana.

Albert E. Foust has been an agriculturist most of his life, but for about 12 years was employed as timber purchaser by the Oil Well Supply Company of Van Wert. His education was derived from both the subscription and the public schools and upon the foundation thus laid has been built a superstructure of information obtained from observation and experience, giving him a varied and useful fund of available knowledge which marks the well-read man. In 1864 Mr. Foust enlisted in Company G, 47th Regiment, Ohio Vol. Inf., and, while he was in service only about one year, he was under fire the greater part of the time and experienced all the vicissitudes and excitement of army life. He assisted in the taking of Fort McAllister, was at Bentonville, saw the capture and burning of Columbia, South Carolina, and accompanied Sherman's army on its "March to the Sea," receiving an honorable discharge in June, 1865.

Albert E. Foust has been twice married: In 1857 to Elizabeth Beamer, who died in 1886, leaving four children, viz: Loren A., of Indiana; Perry C., of Paulding County; George A., of Hoaglin township; and Shannon L., of Fostoria. His present wife was Mrs. Louisa (Shoemaker) Shreckengaust, widow of Abraham Shreckengaust and a daughter of Samuel H. Shoemaker, who was a native of Pennsylvania and a pioneer of Fairfield County. By her first union Mrs. Foust had five children of whom three are living, viz: Samuel H., of Scott; Charles W., of Hoaglin township; and Martha E., wife of Leroy Foust, of Morrow County. Mr. Foust is a Democrat and is now serving his third term as trustee of Hoaglin township, being, in all walks of life, an honorable, upright gentleman, who commands general and deep respect.

many fears and forebodings, toward their new home. There was ample cause for anxiety, for it had been but a very few years since "Mad" Anthony Wayne had gained his great victory over the Indians at the battle of the Maumee, resulting in the treaty of Greenville with the bloodthirsty Shawanees, and warlike Wyandots, Senecas and Delawares. The thought that they were to settle right on the border, within two miles of the treaty line, and in easy striking distance of the Indians still smarting under their defeat, caused a feeling of anything but security. A new road had to be cut for the teams, and again the ax resounded in the primitive forests of the Olentangy. After great trouble, they reached the log cabin at the sugar camp, where both families resided until Brundige could buy some land and build a cabin for himself. He had been here but a very short time when he met Col. Kilbourn, who had begun to survey and lay out the town of Norton. Kilbourn told Brundige that he had a fine piece of land that he would sell for $400. Brundige paid the money, and Kilbourn immediately returned to Chillicothe, had the land entered in the name of Nathaniel Brundige, and cleared $200 on a piece of land that he had not located. This land is a part of the farm now owned and occupied by John Brundige, and upon which Nathaniel immediately put up a log cabin, and moved his family into it. The remains of the log cabin can still be seen just northwest of the residence of his son.

Wyatt, assisted by his wife and sons, succeeded by hard work in clearing quite a number of acres of land. The first clearing they planted in corn, but the crop was nearly destroyed by raccoons, which at that time were so numerous as to seriously interfere with the raising of grain. In 1811, Wyatt built the first brick house in Marlborough Township, the brick for which was made from clay on his farm. The structure was a massive affair, and, with its high walls and gabled roof, was an object of much curiosity to the Indians. It was built for a tavern, and was the first hostelry in the township, and, in its prime, had a State reputation. It was situated on the old State road, and formed part of the celebrated Fort Morrow, the site of which, since the year 1848, has been in Marion County. Nathaniel Wyatt's son-in-law, John Millikin, was First Lieutenant under Capt. Drake, and his son William was Ensign under the same famous commander. He himself lent aid to the expedition which resulted at first so ridiculously, and, in fact, nearly all the soldiers of the war of 1812 that had to pass his home on their way to and from the seat of war, received aid and comfort from him. Gen. Harrison tarried for a short time under his roof, while many a wounded soldier found sweet repose around the hearthstone of the old red brick tavern. He died in 1829, and lies buried in the Wyatt Cemetery, which is situated on the farm first settled by him, just east of the house of his grandson.

Jacob Foust, with a large family, came to what is now Ohio from Pennsylvania as early as 1799. Upon his arrival at the Ohio River, he found it so swollen by rains that he was forced to camp until it subsided. Crossing near Wheeling and plunging into the forest, he started in the direction of Zanesville, at which place he arrived after countless trials, and quartered his family in a blacksmith-shop. In a short time, he moved to Ross County, where he remained until the spring of 1807, when he came up to the forks of the Whetstone, and squatted on land belonging to the Campbell heirs. He immediately put up a cabin, and then set to work clearing his land, gaining material assistance from his four stalwart sons. The first season, they cleared some five or six acres and planted it with corn. Everything grew finely, and there promised to be a large yield, but the squirrels and raccoons which had gotten such a high appreciation of corn from the destruction of the crop of Nathaniel Wyatt, came down in great numbers and destroyed the entire growth. All his family are now dead. The following story, illustrative of pioneer life, was told by Foust to Judge Powell many years ago. Soon after he had settled and raised his cabin, his wife was taken with a severe attack of chills and fever, and from that cause, she became dyspeptic. They had an abundance of corn-bread in the house, but this, she said, did not agree with her. She told her husband that what she needed was some wheat bread. Foust knew there was no flour within fifty or sixty miles, but from devotion to his wife, he determined to overcome all obstacles, and get the desired article. He took a bag of wheat on his back, went to Zanesville to get it ground, and then brought it back to his wife. William Brundige, the father of Nathaniel Brundige, did not come to this locality until 1808, when, accompanied by his family, he came up the Whetstone to the settlement. He is best known as Elder Brundige, and was the first Baptist preacher in Marlborough

George Cover was three years old at the time of his father's removal to Van Wert County, and here he was reared and received a common-school education. He was married December 27, 1868, to Elizabeth Crooks, a daughter of Robert and Mary Ann (Foster) Crooks, and they have been the parents of six children—five living and one deceased. Mary Elizabeth, the wife of Ora Mohler of Ridge township, is the mother of five children—Harold, Ilo Abertus, Marie, Frances Ruth, and Chleo Ninetta. Henry E., the second born, died in infancy. Lawrence A., the third child, was reared and educated in the district schools, later studied music at Ada, Ohio, and is now a leading tenor with the Sho-Gun Opera Company. His first season was with John W. Vogel's minstrel company, in 1902. The following season he was with the Ada Rehan-Otis Skinner company, and, for a time, was also connected with the Parsifal Company. Marion F., the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. George Cover, was educated at the Lima (Ohio) Business College, and is now book-keeper for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Baltic, Ohio. He married Agnes Burkey, of Tuscarawas County, and has one child—Dorothy Marjorie. George Luther, unmarried, lives at home with his parents. Nettie La Verne, the sixth child, married G. C. Heist, of Washington township, and is the mother of one child—Virgil Marcile.

In 1878 Mr. Cover erected his present fine large frame house and is now preparing to build a new barn. For many years he was a breeder of Polled Aberdeen-Angus cattle, and a raiser of fine sheep, having won many premiums at the county fairs. Mr. Cover is one of the directors of the Allen County Fire Insurance Company, serving now his sixth year, and is also a director of the Home Telephone Company of Middlepoint. In his religious connections he is a member and a deacon of the Lutheran Church at Middlepoint. A picture of the Cover family accompanies this sketch, being presented on a foregoing page.

ALBERT E. FOUST, for upward of half a century a resident of Hoaglin township, was born June 11, 1835, in that portion of Marion County, Ohio, which has since been designated as Morrow County. He is a son of Job and Sarah (Hardman) Foust, who died in this county many years ago. Job Foust was born in Marion County and was a son of Jacob Foust, who came there at a very early day from Pennsylvania. The former was married to Sarah Hardman, who was a Virginian by birth and remained in Marion County until 1856, when he located in Hoaglin township. Three children survive them, namely: Albert E.; Lucy, wife of Milton Hemlinger, of Defiance County, Ohio; and Chauncey M., of Indiana.

Albert E. Foust has been an agriculturist most of his life, but for about 12 years was employed as timber purchaser by the Oil Well Supply Company of Van Wert. His education was derived from both the subscription and the public schools and upon the foundation thus laid has been built a superstructure of information obtained from observation and experience, giving him a varied and useful fund of available knowledge which marks the well-read man. In 1864 Mr. Foust enlisted in Company G, 47th Regiment, Ohio Vol. Inf., and, while he was in service only about one year, he was under fire the greater part of the time and experienced all the vicissitudes and excitement of army life. He assisted in the taking of Fort McAllister, was at Bentonville, saw the capture and burning of Columbia, South Carolina, and accompanied Sherman's army on its "March to the Sea," receiving an honorable discharge in June, 1865.

Albert E. Foust has been twice married: In 1857 to Elizabeth Beamer, who died in 1886, leaving four children, viz: Loren A., of Indiana; Perry C., of Paulding County; George A., of Hoaglin township; and Shannon L., of Fostoria. His present wife was Mrs. Louisa (Shoemaker) Shreckengaust, widow of Abraham Shreckengaust and a daughter of Samuel H. Shoemaker, who was a native of Pennsylvania and a pioneer of Fairfield County. By her first union Mrs. Foust had five children of whom three are living, viz: Samuel H., of Scott; Charles W., of Hoaglin township; and Martha E., wife of Leroy Foust, of Morrow County. Mr. Foust is a Democrat and is now serving his third term as trustee of Hoaglin township, being, in all walks of life, an honorable, upright gentleman, who commands general and deep respect.

EDMOND A. LEATHERS, one of the prominent and representative farmers and stockraisers of Ridge township, whose well-improved farm of 120 acres is situated in section 34, was born in Ridge township, on February 26, 1859, and is a son of Harrison and Martena A. (Cummings) Leathers. The father was born in Fairfield County, Ohio, October 30, 1834, and was a son of Christian Leathers, who was of German extraction but a native of Maryland. The parents came to Ohio at an early day, and in Harrison's boyhood settled in Ridge township, Van Wert County. The latter spent the remainder of his life in the township named, where he died June 5, 1902. He was a prominent and valued citizen, and served efficiently in a number of the local offices, at various times being assessor and township clerk. During the greater part of his life he was an elder in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the General Synod. He was a valued member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and his burial was conducted according to the ritual of the order. His widow still resides in Ridge township. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Leathers were: Edmond A., of this sketch; William C. and Delora V. (Mrs. William C. Gilliland) both of Ridge township; and Florence E., wife of John G. Prill, of Payne, Paulding County, Ohio.

Edmond A. Leathers was reared in Ridge township and was educated in both its public and private schools as well as at Van Wert. After completing his education, he taught for four consecutive years in Willshire and Liberty townships, and after his marriage settled on his present valuable farm on which he has erected one of the most attractive modern residences in the township. The land owned by the estate of the late Harrison Leathers has become doubly valuable on account of the great development of oil upon it. In 1901 there was drilled on the farm mentioned, which is situated in section 34, Ridge township, an oil-well which, for 33 consecutive days, flowed 250 barrels of oil per day, without being pumped. Later pumping machinery was installed and oil was produced in large, paying quanities.

On June 3, 1883, Mr. Leathers was married to Mary J. Bell, who was born in Ashland County, Ohio, and is a daughter of James and Charlotte (Reame) Bell. Seven children have been born to this marriage, namely: James H., Arthur M., Urban C., Clara B., Earl E., Beulah B. and Luther E.

Politically Mr. Leathers is usually in accord with the Republican party. He has served ship, and is noted for his positive character and remarkable memory, especially of pioneer history. James Trindle, of Pennsylvania, another soldier of 1812, and who was conspicuous for his bravery in Drake's defeat, came about this time, and settled one mile north of the site of the village of Westfield. He received the patent for his land from the hand of James Madison, the President, whose signature it bears under date of February 15 1811. Josiah Goodhue came next, and settled on the west bank of the river, just opposite the point where Cook had located. Daniel Peak, another soldier of 1812, with his sons Ziba and Richard, came in 1819 and settled on the school section. Two years later, Jacob Conklin, still another soldier, and, as well as Peak, a native of Vermont, located on an adjoining track. From Liberty Township, where he had first located, he followed the Indian trail to a point known as Windsor's Corners, whence he diverged, and, cutting his own road two miles north and fording the Whetstone, he reached his land, now owned by his son Edwin. The road he thus opened up is the south part of what is now known as the Claridon road. He was a resident of the township fifty-four years, and died at the age of eighty seven. His widow survives him, and, although in her eighty-second year, her mind is clear, and she loves to recount the happy experiences of her pioneer life, amid toil and hardships, or how they used to gather in the humble cabin of the settler to hear those men of God, the pioneer preachers, tell of that house "not made with hands,"

"In thoughts that breathe, and words that burn."

The Fousts, John, Abraham and Samuel, all came into the township not far from this time, and all had been in the "last war" with Great Britain. Samuel, now the only surviving one, although but ten years of age, drove a team, and was with Gen. Harrison at Fort Seneca when the battle was fought at Lower Sandusky, and could hear the firing. Abraham served under Gen. McArthur, and, while at Detroit, was taken sick, and, not relishing hospital life, contrary to orders, crossed over into the city and boarded with a family consisting of a French woman and her husband, the former of whom took quite an interest in the young soldier and was the means of saving his life. For several days, the old lady was observed to have long conversations with her husband, whose sympathies were with the British. The subject of these talks, which were in French, seemed to be young Foust. At last his benefactress warned him to flee at once, as a plot had been laid to take his scalp, and he was then glad to submit to the inconveniences of hospital life. During the war of 1812, Jonathan Shaw, the original pioneer, joined the army of Gen. Harrison, and, during the exciting times, his family and those of the other settlers at Shaw Town so called not because of any village located there, but because of the numerous families of Shaws there located, would often take refuge in the block-house at Fort Morrow at the Wyatt settlement, where they would sometimes remain for weeks.

On one of these occasions a company of rangers, passing through that settlement and finding the people gone, helped themselves to a plentiful supply of honey from the hives of John Shaw, Sr., and, when they had feasted, they made a target of a tree near the house for rifle practice, and shot a number of bullets into it, which the boys on their return considered of so much value that they carefully cut them out.

Drake's defeat, which caused so much alarm to this section of the State, occurring within the limits of that vast tract called Marlborough Township, which at that time included this, and as a large number of the participants in that affair were afterward settlers here, it seems very appropriate that an account of it should be given in this connection, especially since the one which has found its way into history is erroneous in several particulars. Since this version of the affair has been carefully gleaned from original sources, and has come from the lips of some who could say "All of which I saw and part of which I was," it is hoped it will accord more nearly than responded nobly to the call for the defense [illegible] nation. The enlistment began on Sunday, the very day that Fort Sumter capitulated, at the close of services at the Methodist Church in Westfield, on which occasion eight volunteered, in anticipation of the call for troops, which was not made by President Lincoln until the next day. By May 1, a company was raised from this and the adjoining township of [illegible], which was mustered into the service on [illegible] 15, 1861, as Company C. of the Twenty-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and under command of Capt. Jesse Meredith, who had gained that rank in the Mexican war. Out of this company, twenty were killed in battle and fifteen died from disease. Westfield contributed liberally to the Thirty-First, Sixty-Fifth, Eighty-Eighth, Ninety-Sixth, One Hundred and Twenty-First and One Hundred and Seventy-Fourth Regiments of Volunteer Infantry, and to the Third and Thirteenth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, but especially, the Ninety-Sixth and One Hundred and Twenty-First Infantry. It also furnished some men to the Third, Fourth, Sixty-Fourth and One Hundred and Eighty-Seventh Ohio Infantry and Eighteenth Regulars and Eighth Ohio Cavalry. This township was always ahead of its quota, and a noted fact was that it furnished men for the rank and file, only two officers going from here during the late war. Fifteen years after the close of the war, on May 31, 1880, the citizens of the township met in Westfield, to decorate, for the first time, the graves of "our fallen heroes," on which occasion a vast concourse of people, headed by the surviving veterans, many of them maimed and scarred by wounds, repaired to an adjoining grove to listen to an appropriate address by Maj. [illegible] G. Beaty. Then, amid impressive ceremonies, the graves of the soldiers buried in the cemetery adjacent to the town, were decorated with flowers, while a temporary monument surmounted with a flag, served to remind us of those who died on battle-field and in prison-pen, and whose remains rest beneath a Southern soil. At the close of the exercises a salute was fired by their surviving comrades.

Following is a list of the soldiers whose memory the people of Westfield Township delight to honor:

good commodious farm dwellings, several of them made of brick. Seth Slack built the first brick house in this section.

The early pioneers found this township a favorite hunting-ground of the Indians, and numerous parties of the Wyandots roamed through the forests in search of game. A well-beaten trail ran along the banks of Indian Run, by which they came from their reservation. They continued to make this their hunting-ground as late as 1815, when they began to be crowded out by the whites. After this, up to as late as 1820, an old chief of this tribe, called Scionto, came to the township trapping, and often made the residence of Joseph Cole, in the edge of Troy, his headquarters. The old chief became quite a favorite of the family, and was remarkable for his friendliness to all whites. Wolves and deer were found in abundance, and an occasional bear added to the sport of the huntsman. The wolves were especially bold and troublesome, and the settlers were obliged to build a protection for their stock.

The first election under its own auspices was held in Oxford at the house of Henry Foust, and later at the house of Elisha Bishop. In 1820, when James Madison was candidate a second time for the Presidency, an election was held here, at which David Elliott, John Shaw and Henry Foust were Judges. There were two Clerks, and beside the Board there were two votes cast. The first Justice of the Peace was Andrew Murphy, who was succeeded by Ezra Olds. The latter served for thirty years. The introduction of those pioneer industries which are found indispensable in isolated settlements, was quite late in Oxford. There were older settlements all about, and it was not until the people felt able to indulge in the luxury of a convenient mill, that such an enterprise found encouragement enough to start. It was not until 1832, that Milton Pierce and Henry Riley built the first saw-mill in the southeast part of the township, at the mouth of Basin Branch. Here it stood until age rendered it too infirm for service, when it was rebuilt by Lewis Powers. It still stands, owned by Benjamin Martin, but has for the past few years been out of service. A grist-mill was built about the same time, a little further up the stream, by Hosea Waters. The buhr-stones were made of large "nigger-head" bowlders, and were run by horse power. This was rather a slow way to make flour, but it proved a great improvement on the plan of going ten, fifteen or twenty miles to mill. A tannery was started by George Claypool in 1824, a few rods south of Windsor Corners. It afterward passed into the hands of Jonas Foust, and at a still later day, into the possession of James J. Sherwood.

Another noticeable fact is the late date when the cabins began to be superseded by frame dwellings. It was not until 1840 that the first of these latter structures was erected for Henry Foust. A mechanic by the name of Harkness did the work, and the lumber was procured at Joseph Cole's mill, in Troy Township. The building still stands, but forty years of exposure to sunshine and storm without the protection of paint, has given it an aged appearance.

The first death in the township was that of a child of Comfort Olds, in the year 1812. No graveyard had yet been laid out in Oxford, and the interment was made in the cemetery at Norton, which was an older settlement. The grave was dug by Henry Foust. The first birth in the township was that of Job Foust.

Oxford has but one village, a flourishing little town of about eight hundred inhabitants, situated just north of the center of the township, on the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati & Indianapolis Railway. The original name of this village was Oxford, but was subsequently changed to Ashley. The ground was owned by L. W. Ashley and J. C. Avery, and was platted by them on June 15, 1849, the County Surveyor, Charles Neil, laying it off in sixty-nine inlots. On the 6th day of August, 1849, Henry Lamb and S. Finch made an addition of eighty-three inlots to the town, numbering from seventy to one hundred and fifty-two, inclusive. June 18, 1850, J. C. Avery, S. Finch and Henry Lamb made an addition of fifteen inlots, from one hundred and fifty-three to one hundred and sixty-seven, inclusive. Two years later, Messrs. Lamb and Finch platted ten outlots, from A to K, inclusive, and, in 1860, L. W. Ashley added three more lots. Hugh Cole and John Doty made a small addition in 1877, making a total of 183 in and out lots. In May of the year succeeding the platting of the village, Lewis Purmort started a small grocery and dry-goods store on the Shoemaker farm, one-half mile east of Ashley. Later in the year, Aloy Patee built the present Ashley Hotel, and was its first proprietor. In the fall, Purmort moved his stock of goods into what is now the gentleman's sitting-room of the hotel. He remained here for about a year, while he built a storeroom on Lot No. 33.

OXFORD TOWNSHIP—ORGANIZATION—EARLY FAMILIES—PIONEER ENTERPRISES—CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.

> "So centuries passed by, and still the woods

OXFORD, like some other political organizations that have passed into history, has had its rise and decline. Its earliest organization was a part of Marlborough and with it extended its authority to the lake shore. After some seven years of this subordinate rule, a petition was presented to the County Commissioners by John Shaw and others, praying for the erection of Oxford into a separate township, which was granted March 6, 1815, with boundaries as follows: "Beginning at the southeast corner of the sixth township, Range 18, United States military lands, and running thence north on the east line of Range 18 to the Indian boundary line; thence westerly on said line to the east line of Range 19; thence south on said range line to the south line of the sixth township; thence east on said line to the place of beginning." Three years later, all that part of Radnor Township which was situated due north of Oxford, and north of the Indian boundary line, was attached to this township. In 1822, on the formation of Westfield Township, Oxford furnished the territory, and in 1847, when Morrow County was formed, a strip one mile wide and five miles long was taken from the north side and added to Westfield Township. Oxford at present is five miles long east and west, and four miles wide north and south, and bounded on the north by Westfield, on the east by Perry, both townships in Morrow County; on the south by Brown, and on the west by Troy and Marlborough. The surface of the township is generally level, though somewhat broken in the northwest corner along the Olentangy River which passes through that corner of the township. Along the west branch of Alum Creek, which passes almost the entire width of the township from north to south about a half a mile from the east end, the surface presents the same broken features. About the center of the township, the Basin Branch forms a junction with Alum Creek. This branch is large enough to run a saw-mill, and just at this point was the site of the first mill erected in the township. The soil is generally a low black loam, originally very wet, almost swampy, but by a regular system of drainage there is scarcely an acre in the township that has not been reduced to good tillable land. In the sections noted as rolling, the soil is principally clay, but well adapted to the products of this region and is profitable for farming purposes. The timber comprises the various oaks of this climate, hickory, ash, elm, and beech. There was formerly considerable walnut, but the demand for this timber and the consequent market for it has resulted in removing all of this kind, save here and there a solitary tree. An occasional sycamore of fine growth is found and finds a ready market. The farms have nearly all been well improved and are managed with all the advantages of improved tools and methods, and prove generally profitable to their owners. Corn is the chief product, and is raised in large quantities. Wheat is also a profitable crop here and a considerable amount of it is raised. A good deal of grain is shipped annually at this point, though perhaps not so large a quantity as formerly, the farmers of late turning their attention to stock-raising and consuming their grain at home. This is one of the best shipping points between Columbus and Cleveland.

The settlement of Oxford Township began nearly as early as any other part of the county, but it grew up very slowly for several years. In the year 1810, a settlement was begun in the northwest quarter of the township, around what is now known as Windsor's Corners. The first settler in this section was the father of Ezra and Comfort Olds, who built the first cabin, a log structure, twenty feet square. In the fall of the same year, or perhaps the following spring, Henry Foust, a young unmarried man, settled on a farm a short distance east of the Olds farm. He was married, in 1812, to Mary Olds, and lived on the place until 1878, clearing the forest by his own effort, and raising a large family. The youngest child, Albert, still lives on the homestead. Old Mr. Olds often related, during the latter part of his life, of his going to election in Oxford Township when there were but five voters, who appointed him the first juror from the township in the courts of Delaware County. Two years later, a young man by the name of William T. Sharp came as far as Norton, with Gen. Harrison's army. He was not a soldier, however, and liking the country, determined to make it his home. He lived for some time in the family of Henry Foust, and later settled about a mile down the river, on the farm now owned by Albert Gillet. He raised a large family, the gentlemen of that name known in the county as stock-dealers being his sons. One of these, Samuel Gillet, lives within a few rods of the old homestead, and was, during the late war, Captain of Company D of the One Hundred and Twenty-first Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Among the first families who came here, but a few years later, was Aden Windsor, who settled on the farm at the corners. In the year 1832, he built a brick house on his farm, which was the first brick residence in the township, and it still stands a silent witness of the passing years. The owner of this residence lived but a few years to enjoy the comfort thus prepared, but the property is still in the hands of the family. About the time he erected the dwelling, Mr. Windsor put up a frame barn, across the road from his house, and it still remains, though considerably the worse for the half-century's exposure to the elements, without the protection of paint. Soon after the war of 1812, David Kyrk came into this section. He was a soldier in that war, and still lives here, nearly ninety years old, on his original farm. He is one of the very few remaining pensioners of 1812. His has been a remarkable constitution, and after a long and active life, he has only recently become unable to walk from his farm to town, a distance of four miles.

In 1810, a settlement was begun in the southeast part of the township, known later as the Alum Creek District. Andrew Murphy, from Pennsylvania, was the first settler, but was joined, soon afterward, by James McWilliams, Hugh Waters, Henry Riley and Henry Wolf. Some seven years later, that section of the township where Ashley has since risen was settled by Robert Brown, his farm occupying the southwest quarter of the village. His cabin home stood on the ground now occupied by the Ashley Hotel. In the following year, Ralph Slack came up from Berkshire and settled on the farm now occupied by the southeast part of the village. His cabin was built near the site of the residence of Bennett Brundige. About the same time, his brother, John Slack, settled on the farm next east, across Alum Creek, his house being near the present residence of Joseph Evans. Elijah Smith settled on the farm now owned by Howard Rogers, about 1815, and Calvin Cole settled, about the same time, on the farm next east of John Slack. In 1819, Adam Shoemaker settled a short distance north of the present village of Ashley, but moved, a few years later, to a point just east of the village. He had a large family of boys, who settled about him, so that at present there are more of his descendants living here than of any other of the early families. In 1823, Amos Spurgen settled on the farm now occupied by the northwest quarter of the village, and three years later, Thomas Barton settled on the farm next northwest of Ashley. The latter raised a large family, who remained here, and are now in possession of the original lands of their father.

Section 3, the southwest quarter of the township, was sold to John Rathbone, of New York. His patent was issued for 4,000 acres, and was signed by John Adams, President of the United States, May 3, 1800. This land was not brought into the market, however, until 1842, when it passed to his grandson, Hiram G. Andrews, of Delaware, who immediately put it up for sale. It was laid off into forty sections of 100 acres each, and the first purchaser in the following year was Griffith Thomas, and soon after, Evan McCreary bought a lot. Isaac Clark, George Houseworth and N. E. Gale were among the purchasers of this land, which sold at from $3 to $8 per acre. At this time, this land was heavily timbered, and much of it so wet that it was considered almost worthless; for years this section was known as the "great south woods." To the early settlers the prospect must have been very discouraging, but, by great energy and industry, this section has become the abode of some of Oxford's most thrifty farmers. The lands are generally cleared, drained and in good condition for tilling, and the farms to be found here cannot be excelled in the county for their production of corn, wheat, pasture, stock, etc. The rude log cabins that sheltered the first owners have given way to Spring. The spot on which it was located is now embraced in the University Campus. Says Howe in his "Historical Collections," from which we have several times quoted: "It stood close to the spring, and was made of poles, Indian fashion, fifteen feet square, in which he kept tavern. The principal settlers were Messrs. Byxbe, William Little, Dr. Lamb, Solomon Smith, Elder Jacob Drake (Baptist preacher), Thomas Butler, and Ira Carpenter. In 1808 Moses Byxbe built the first frame house on William Street, Lot 70, and the first brick house was erected the ensuing fall, by Elder Drake, on Winter street. Being unable to get but one mason, his wife laid all the brick of the inside walls." (Lady readers, how many of you, who grow up like hothouse plants, could, in case of the most extreme emergency, perform such work as laying brick?) But few settlements were made in this division of the county, until the laying-out of the town in 1808 (about the time of the formation of the county). After it became the seat of justice, it settled up rapidly, as more particularly noticed in another chapter.

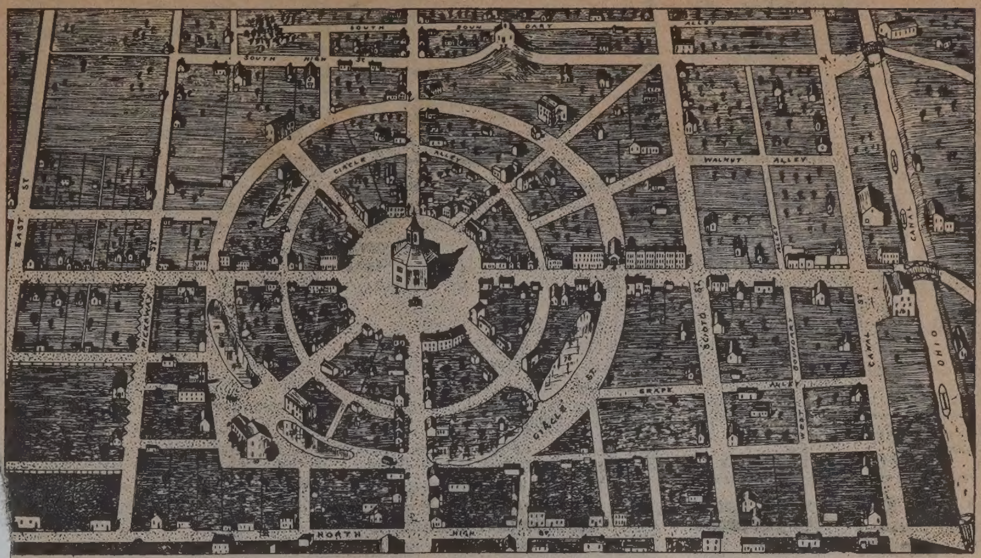
In 1807, a settlement was made in the present township of Marlborough, by Jacob Foust. The following account of his trip to this section is of some interest: "Foust left Pennsylvania in 1799, with the aim to settle in the Scioto Valley. He had with him a good team of horses, a wagon, a cow, and his wife and seven children. He crossed the Ohio at Wheeling, and, leaving the few habitations of the river, entered the forest, which lay unbroken for miles before him. Twenty miles through the woods brought the family to a large building erected as a 'travelers rest,' capable of holding fifty persons. Here they resolved to pass a night. Morning came, and discovered the fact that some rascal had stolen the best horse. Foust rode to Will's Creek, and hired help to bring the family to that point. Thence they were advanced to Zanesville, where, arriving at night and finding a blacksmith-shop near the center of the town, they took possession. The smith was much surprised in the morning to find his shop converted into a dwelling, but kindly provided some provision for their breakfast. Foust leased land of a man named Brown, and raised a good crop of corn. A woman came along one day with an empty wagon and four horses—her share of an estate. Foust engaged the wagon and team, and hired a man named Bowman to convey his family on to Coleraine Township, of Ross County, where the family remained until 1807. In April of this year, Foust moved up to the forks of the Whetstone, and squatted on lands belonging to the Campbell heirs—the first settler in that section, and only the cabin of Barber, near the spring at Delaware, between his cabin and the Carpenter settlement." The next settler on the river in this section was Ariel Strong; the third was a newly married pair of young people, named Swinington. These three families were all the settlers in this immediate section, prior to 1808. At other points in the township, there were Nathaniel Wyatt, from New York, William Brundage and his son Nathaniel, William Hannaman, Levi Hinter, William and Allen Reed and families. Joseph Curran, Isaac Bush and Silas Davis came in prior to 1812.

In the same year as given above (1807), settlements were made in Trenton Township. William Perfect and Mordecai Thomas were the first squatters, and came from the "dark and bloody ground." A man named Spining owned 1,000 acres of military land, and Thomas and Perfect each bought 100 acres of this land, located at the mouth of Perfect Creek, a little stream named for the family. Bartholomew Anderson also came from Kentucky, and settled just east of Perfect, in 1810. John Culver, Michael Ely and their families were the first settlers north of Culver's Creek, and located in the settlement in 1809. Shortly after them John Williamson came and bought land of Ely, and during the year, married his daughter Rosanna. A man named Roberts is noted as the first permanent settler on Rattlesnake's Run, where he lived for twenty years or more. John Gim settled on the Creek near by, as early as 1807–8. William Ridgaway came a few years later and settled on a farm adjoining to that of Gim's. We make the following extract referring to the settlers of this township: "The northern part of the township was settled by industrious people from New Jersey. A colony from Ithaca, N. Y. settled in the south, and one from Pennsylvania in the west part of the township, all strong men, well fitted for toil in the forest. Of the early settlers was Gratax, who wore 'leather breeches full of stitches,' a fawn-skin vest, and a coon-skin cap. One farmer ran two large asheries, and supplied Delaware with salt and window glass for more than twelve years. These articles he wagoned from Zanesville. Jonathan Condit, whose descendants are scattered over the east part of the township, came from New Jersey, and settled on Little Walnut. Oliver Gratax came a single man, and married a Miss Rosecrans."

Ohio town's circle was squared



Birdseye View of Circleville in 1836, Looking South.

CIRCLEVILLE, the county seat of Pickaway in Ohio, was laid out in 1810 by Daniel Dresbach, on land originally owned by Zeigler & Watt. The first lot in the town was sold Sept. 10 of that year. The name of the town is attributed to one of the ancient forts of the Mound Builders that was located there, this one being an exact circle in shape. A second fort was an exact square. Descriptions of the forts were published in 1820, in an article by Caleb Atwater in Archaeologia Americana and reprinted in Volume II of Henry Howe's Historical Collections of Ohio (1896). Atwater was a direct descendant of David Atwater, a wealthy original settler of New Haven (Conn.) in 1638. He was recognized by Henry Howe as Ohio's first historian, having come to Circleville in 1815, where he practiced law, became a state legislator and started his writings on historical topics. This bird's-eye view of Circleville suggests how the city appeared in 1836. Although originally built around a circle, in the process of time the nucleus spot of Circleville changed to a square, accomplishing what mathematicians have claimed as an impossible feat — "squared the circle." — Historical Collections of Ohio ful knowledge is worth more than the finest rubies. We could mention many pioneer hardships connected with the history of Uncle Johnny's pilgrimage here, but we will hear of them through the township history, and will then count him one of those, who gained their education within the walls of the old log cabins.

HUGH CARTER, farmer; P. O. Delaware; is a son of Philip and Jane (Carr) Carter. His parents were born in Ireland, and emigrated to Pennsylvania when his father was 11 years old and mother 9. They moved to Guernsey Co., about 1817; his father died in Ross Co., and mother in Guernsey Co. They had ten children—William, Hugh, Martha, Andrew, Jane, James, Thomas, Philip. Two died when children. Mr. Carter was born in 1812, in Washington Co., Penn.; when 16 years old, he began driving a stage line, from St. Clairsville to Wheeling, Va., continuing the same eleven years. He was married to Nancy, a daughter of Hamon and Ann Cash; she was born in about 1809, in Harrison Co., Ohio; by her he has eleven children—William, John, Keziah, Martha, Ellen, Helen, Alice, James; three deceased. In 1843, they came to Delaware Co., and bought 100 acres, a part of the present farm of Samuel Cunningham; he bought seventy-five acres of the Wolfe heirs, and afterward he and his sons bought 500 acres in Marlborough Township, which he has sold to his sons, and now owns 175 acres, well improved, all of which has been attained by his own labors. He now makes a specialty in buying and selling horses, for which he pays regular market prices. When Mr. Carter settled on his present farm, it was then a thick woods; he started in a log cabin, and cleared about two hundred acres. His father was in the war of 1812. Mr. Carter has hauled wheat from here to Sandusky City, a distance of seventy-seven miles, to get money to pay his tax; has worked by the month at $4. He votes the Republican ticket.

WILLIAM DOWNING; retired farmer Sec. 16 P. O. Radnor. Perhaps no one is better known to the people of Troy Township than the gentleman whose name heads this article; everywhere we can hear him spoken of as jolly old Uncle Billy, and it is justice to say that his mind is a history of itself; we hear him speak of chasing the fleeting deer, of the early pioneers, of the times when he would climb the bushes in fear while his brother would slay the deer with his knife, of the jolly times attending the pioneer schools, which are fully noticed in the township history. He was born April 13, 1818, in Troy Township, where he has always remained; at the age of 14, he cut his ankle, which crippled him for two years; at 17, he began farming in partnership with his brother John. He was married, in 1840, to Catharine, a daughter of Peter and Elizabeth Coonfare; her parents were from Pennsylvania; she was born in 1815, in Pennsylvania, and emigrated to Ohio in 1816, settling in Delaware Co., in 1832 or 1833. They settled on the present farm of 66½ acres, which they have attained by their own labors. He started life with nothing but one fatted pig; perseverance has brought him to prosperity in his old age, which he enjoys like a boy. He has worked at carpentering for thirty years, commencing in 1842; he also followed shoemaking to some extent for twelve years. The Creator has given him seven children—Eli, Oliver C., Gabriel, Sarah C., Rufus W., Louisa I., Adaline. Mr. Downing has served as both School Director and Supervisor for twenty-one years, and has also been Constable. He paid out considerable money for the Union cause; his son Eli enlisted from Van Wert Co. Our hero once belonged to the Sons of Temperance; he has taken great interest in reading; has a compilation of almanacs from 1807–1814—quite a novelty, considering their date. His wife's father was in the war of 1812.

JOHN DOWNING; farmer, Sec. 17; P.O. Delaware; is a brother of Samuel Downing, whose sketch appears elsewhere; was born Sept. 10, 1822, in this county, on the farm where he now lives; was married, Aug. 1, 1847, to Margaret, a daughter of Jesse and Mary Foust, who are mentioned very prominently in Oxford Township; her mother was married to Mr. Lowther, prior to her marriage with Mr. Foust; by the first she had two children—Samuel and William, and by the last union she had four—Christina, Margaret, Jacob and Emily; she was born Dec. 28, 1828. They have no children of their own, but have raised three—two of his sister's children and one for Mr. Morris. They have 148 acres, valued at $60 per acre, attained by buying out the heirs; he has been Trustee for several terms and held other small offices. They are members of the Presbyterian Church at Radnor; he always voted the Democratic ticket—cast his first vote for James K. Polk; he paid his share of the township draft. Lowther, spoken of in this sketch, was a trumpeter in the cavalry in the war of 1812, under Col. Crawford.

SAMUEL DOWNING, farmer, Sec. 17; P. O. Delaware; is a son of Samuel Downing, born Aug. 23,

Before giving blood, participants must undergo tests for blood pressure, temperature, and iron content. Iron content is checked by pricking the ear for a blood sample which is dropped into a solution. The rate of speed at which the blood drops to the bottom of the solution determines iron. If the sample does not settle to the bottom, a centrifuge is performed to tell the exact percentage of iron in the blood. If the percentage does not meet certain requirements, the donor may be turned away. Dorothy Faust, LPN, left, and Tim Schlatter, right, both of Paulding, demonstrate the procedure.

EXPLANATION OF ORDER FOR PHOTOCOPIES

Use this form to order photocopies of records of veterans who served in the United States or Confederate armed forces. These records include:

> Pension application files based on United States (not State) service before World War I.
> Bounty-land warrant application files based on United States (not State) service before 1856.
> Pension or bounty-land warrant application files usually include an official statement of the veteran's military or naval service, as well as information of a personal or genealogical nature. If we find such a file, we send copies of the documents we think will be most useful to you.
> Military service records based on service in the United States Army (officers who served before June 30, 1917, enlisted men before October 31, 1912), Navy (officers and enlisted men who served before 1886), Marine Corps (officers and enlisted men who served before 1896), and Confederate armed forces (1861-65).
> Military service records rarely contain family information. The record of a man's service in any one organization is entirely separate from the record of his service in any other organization. We are ordinarily unable to accurately establish the identity of men of the same name who served in different organizations. If you know that a man served in more than one organization and you desire copies of his military service record, submit a separate form for the service record in each organization.

More information about these records may be found in our free Genealogical Information Kit.

Send the completed form to the address on the front of the form. When you send more than one form at a time, each order will be handled separately; you may not receive all your replies at the same time.

When we find numerous files for the veteran, we suggest that you visit the National Archives and examine the various files, or hire a professional researcher to examine the files for you. The Board for Certification of Genealogists, 1307 New Hampshire Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036, can provide you with the names of persons in the Washington area willing to do research for a fee.

EXPLANATION OF ORDER FOR PHOTOCOPIES

Use this form to order photocopies of records of veterans who served in the United States or Confederate armed forces. These records include:

> Pension application files based on United States (not State) service before World War I.
> Bounty-land warrant application files based on United States (not State) service before 1856.
> Pension or bounty-land warrant application files usually include an official statement of the veteran's military or naval service, as well as information of a personal or genealogical nature. If we find such a file, we send copies of the documents we think will be most useful to you.
> Military service records based on service in the United States Army (officers who served before June 30, 1917, enlisted men before October 31, 1912), Navy (officers and enlisted men who served before 1886), Marine Corps (officers and enlisted men who served before 1896), and Confederate armed forces (1861-65).
> Military service records rarely contain family information. The record of a man's service in any one organization is entirely separate from the record of his service in any other organization. We are ordinarily unable to accurately establish the identity of men of the same name who served in different organizations. If you know that a man served in more than one organization and you desire copies of his military service record, submit a separate form for the service record in each organization.

More information about these records may be found in our free Genealogical Information Kit.

Send the completed form to the address on the front of the form. When you send more than one form at a time, each order will be handled separately; you may not receive all your replies at the same time.

When we find numerous files for the veteran, we suggest that you visit the National Archives and examine the various files, or hire a professional researcher to examine the files for you. The Board for Certification of Genealogists, 1307 New Hampshire Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20036, can provide you with the names of persons in the Washington area willing to do research for a fee.

Sherer fought from Normandy to the Battle of the Bulge

By JIM LANGHAM
Feature Writer

Haviland's Lester Sherer is proudly surrounded by his family these days when he pulls out the Purple Heart award that he received in World War II. But the price that he paid to acquire the honor cost a grueling three years of his life.

Sherer was just 12 miles from the Rhine River in February 1945 when he was hit by a German 88 artillery shot. He still remembers how the blast hit the top of tree branches, exploded, and blew everything around him on top of him.

"I laid there in the forest. I couldn't get up to do anything and they couldn't get anyone in to help us out until after dark," Sherer said. "When they came in to get us there were four that they had to get out. Two of us were placed on the back of the jeep and the other two on the hood."

Sherer was immediately sent to the 120th Field Hospital in France with a severe leg injury, and various other lacerations. A piece of shrapnel from the blast remains in his back to this day. He was next transferred to Paris, where he was hospitalized for two months.

"They eventually loaded us on a plane and took us Glasgow. Then we were shipped back to the United States on an old cargo ship. I was on the "B Deck," which was about 40 or 50 feet above the water line, but we got into a storm so bad that the waves were crashing higher than my window. We were supposed to sail into New York, but we ended up in Halifax, Nova Scotia instead."

■ Are you a World War II veteran who would like to share your experiences with our readers? Do you know a WWII veteran who would? If so, please contact the Progress office at 419-399-4015, or email to progress@progressnewspaper.org

From that point, Sherer began his "tour" of United States hospitals. He was first taken to Myles Standish Hospital in Boston, then Thayer General Hospital in Nashville. From there he was transferred to Fletcher Hospital in Cambridge.

"They closed that so I was taken to the Newton D. Baker Hospital in Parkersburg, W.Va. That was the dirtiest hospital I've ever been in. We laid on sheets a week at a time that weren't changed. Our bandages weren't changed. I called home and told my mother to talk to A.F. Ptak, a colonel in the National Guard in Paulding, and tell him what was happening.

"He told her to call our representative, Delbert Latta, and tell him that I should be transferred to Battle Creek, Mich.," observed Sherer. "By that time I had been in the hospital over two years. All I wanted then was for them to cut my leg off and get it over with."

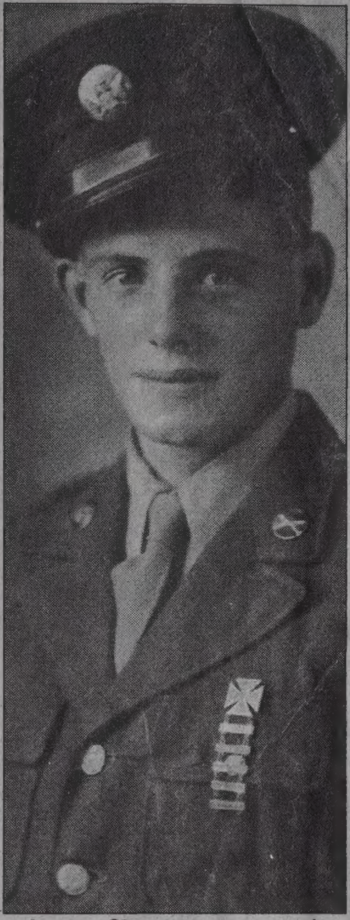
At Battle Creek, Sherer was given hope; if he worked with the doctor in medication and rehabilitation, his leg could more than likely be saved. Even better, he was allowed to return home for a stint of 60 days to recuperate before returning to the hospital for final therapy.

When he returned, doctors discovered that he had a severe infection in his bone. That required a very sensitive bone graft. Medical officials at the time estimated that 60 percent of it took.

"The main thing is that they had me walking," said Sherer. "I couldn't believe it. I never thought that I would walk again."

At that point, Sherer had 60 days of terminal leave left in his time of service, so he was allowed to return home where he received his honorable discharge papers on Sept. 7, 1947.

Sherer had entered the U.S. Army's First Infantry Division of the 16th Regiment, Company L, through Fort Benjamin Harrison in March of 1944. The Haviland-Scott High School graduate then was taken to Camp Fannin in Tyler, Texas, an infantry replacement center.



Lester Sherer upon completing his basic training during World War II. He was a member of the U.S. Army's 1st Infantry Division, known as "The Big Red One," which participated in the Normandy Invasion (D-Day).

After a brief visit home, he returned to Camp Maxie, Texas. After two weeks he was transferred to Jackson, N.C., and then to Fort Meade, Md. From there he boarded the liner Queen Elizabeth for a quick trip to Glasgow, Scotland.

"The Queen Elizabeth was the fastest ship going," explained Sherer. "It changed course every seven minutes so subs couldn't take aim at it."

From Glasgow he was transferred to Leake, England, where he joined the First Division's replacement troops.

"Not too long after that we hit Normandy and Omaha Beach," noted Sherer. "We went right on through hedgerow fighting, house to house. We went through the Siegfried Line."

Sherer's first major mission was to guard two fortresses near Metz, France, Fort Jeanne d'Arc and Fort Driant, where Germans were holed up.

"Those forts were so big that they had an electrical plant, food, and their own cars in there," said Sherer. "All we did was sit there so they couldn't get out.

"They raised the white flag because they wanted us to let their wounded out, but we wouldn't let them out. We finally starved them out and they surrendered," added Sherer.

Sherer's first injury actually occurred in house-to-house combat after they were transferred to St. Vith, France. He didn't realize that there was an enemy on the other side of the door. He got bayoneted. To this day there is a large scar underneath his left arm.

After he was transferred to the 87th Division as a replacement, he was transferred from France to Belgium on a 40 x 8 railroad car (big enough for 40 men or eight horses). He eventually ended up at the site of the Battle of the Bulge but there was too much snow to move forward.

"The snow was waist deep and the ground was so frozen that we couldn't dig a foxhole," said Sherer. "We pushed the snow back to find a place to sleep at night. Everything was fogged in. The air corps couldn't get out. We sat there and couldn't do anything through December and January. In February we moved toward the Rhine."

Two days after he was discharged, on Sept. 9, 1947, Sherer married his wife, Carolyn. They lived and raised three children in the Haviland area. His primary work was at Borden's in Van Wert. For a short time, he also served as Haviland's postmaster and he was employed as a maintenance person at Acme Rental in Van Wert.

At one time he served as Haviland's mayor and he still serves, along with Carolyn, on the Haviland Town Council.

Defiance County veterans officer, wife have two sons serving their country

By JACK PALMER
Staff Writer

Mike and Jackie Williams may have to wait awhile before scheduling a family reunion.

That's because the Defiance County veterans' service officer and his wife have one son currently fulfilling a security mission in Kuwait and another son graduating next week from U.S. Marine supply officer school.

"I never swayed them in the direction of the military," states Mike, who has served in his present position since 1984. "But I am extremely proud of both of them."

"We're behind them 110 percent," adds Jackie, who works at the child development center at Northwest State Community College. "This is a scary time, but I know the boys are very well prepared to do whatever they may be called upon to do."

Institute in 2002 and is currently on active duty at Camp Lejuene, N.C., where he will graduate April 11. His assignment at that time is unknown.

"It's been his lifelong dream to be a Marine," Mike notes. "He's enthused, motivated and very committed to the cause."

As early as two years ago, during Joe's junior year at VMI, Mike remembers him coming home and talking about fighting a war in Iraq.

"One of his classmates had a father who worked in the Pentagon," relates Mike. "At that time it seemed to be total speculation, and I told him we would have to just wait and see. But Joe would always say, 'No, we are going to war with Iraq.' "

Mike figures his older son will end up in Iraq sooner or later.

"Assignments in the Marine Corps are based on needs, but even if Joe remains stateside at first he will probably end up being part of occupation forces when the war is over," states Mike. "The occupation will probably take 2-3 years, probably longer."

Ben Williams, 21, is presently assigned to Bravo Company with the 2nd military police battalion in Kuwait. He is a Marine reservist who was activated Feb. 27.

"All I can really say is that he is fulfilling a security mission in Kuwait," comments Mike. "He has received extensive training with gear and gas masks in the event of biological and chemical weapons."

The Williams family — which also includes daughter Betsy, a Defiance High School freshman — was previously disrupted when Mike was activated for the first Gulf War.

"He was gone for 10 months," states Jackie. "The boys were 8 and 7 and Betsy was 2½. Joe was even quoted in The Crescent-News at that time asking, 'When will war stop, Mommy?' "

This time it is Ben who has a 2½ year-old daughter.

"It's tough having him gone," admits Ben's wife, Jolene. "It doesn't look like he's going to be home very soon, but you learn not to think that far down the road. You just look at things one day at a time."

Just last Saturday, Jolene received a special phone call from her husband.

"The connection was bad, and he was only on the line for about two minutes," she states. "But it was enough for him to say he was doing okay."

Mike, who spent 21 years wearing the uniform, remembers taking his two sons to see 'Saving Private Ryan" a few years ago.

"When I realized they were seriously considering the military, I took them to that movie," he recalls. "I was never in combat myself, but I've talked to many veterans who were. They all told me that movie depicted the real deal and I wanted Joe and Ben to see what they might encounter."

"This is a profession where there are certain dangers and risks," he continues. "We've been playing games with Iraq for 12 years, so this action is long overdue. I have a lot of confidence in our military leaders, from the commander-in-chief on down."

The elder Williams remains pleased with the current progress of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

"The war has only been going two weeks and already we are within 19 miles of Baghdad and control 95 percent of the air space," he assesses. "That is nothing short of awesome. Sure we have the best technology, but it's all worthless unless you have the right people behind it."

Selected as finalist

TAMI SHAW

Preliminary competition of the Miss Northwestern Ohio Pageant on Feb. 7 brought 12 area young ladies one step nearer the Miss Ohio Scholarship pageant this summer.

Paulding's Tami Shaw was one of the finalists selected from 27 entries. The finalists will be competing for the title of Miss Northwestern Ohio on Mar. 27 in the Defiance Community Auditorium.

Tami, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shaw, Rt. 2, performed a three minute piano recital for her talent presentation. She was also briefly interviewed by a panel of three judges to test the contestants poise and attitude toward today's world and state issues.

Talent tallies will compose 50 percent of the total scores in the judging Mar. 27. The other half will be composed of a five minute private interview with a panel of certified state judges, an on-stage personality in evening gown and swimsuit competition.

Pageant officials said they are working to obtain $1,500 in scholarship funds for the winner and the girls named to first, second, third and fourth runners up.

Miss Northwestern Ohio will then compete in the Miss Ohio Pageant in Mansfield in June

Paulding woman joins Saved By the Belt Club

Lieutenant T.E. Fiser, commander of the Van Wert Post of the Ohio State Highway Patrol announced that another local resident had joined Ohio's "Saved By The Belt Club" after she escaped serious injury in an accident that occurred Feb. 4 on U.S. 30 in Van Wert.

According to Trooper F.E. Patterson, who investigated the accident, Martha L. Straley of Paulding was eastbound on U.S. 30 when she lost control of her car on the snow covered pavement. After sliding off the right side of the roadway, the car struck a fence post and rolled onto its left side. While the car was heavily damaged in the accident, Ms. Straley escaped with only minor injuries because she was wearing a safety belt.

Ms. Straley was presented with a "Saved By The Belt Club" certificate signed by Governor Celeste, Highway Safety Director William M. Denihan and Highway Patrol Superintendent Colonel Jack Walsh. She was also presented with a "Saved By The Belt" lapel pin.

The "Saved By The Belt Club" was organized to recognize people who had benefited from their decision to wear their safety belts. Since the mandatory use law went into effect, on July 4, 1986, over 600 people have received certificates from Patrol officers around the state. "Hopefully, this example of how safety belts can save lives will influence others to buckle up and reduce their risk of death or serious injury," said Lt. Fiser.

UNUSUAL CATCH—John R. Foust, of Delphos, had an unusual and rare catch in these parts while fishing for catchfish below the Power Dam recently. Foust landed a 35-inch eel. He was using shad as bait. Eels are uncommon in the Midwest since they migrate into fresh waters from the ocean. C-N Photo by Al Smith.

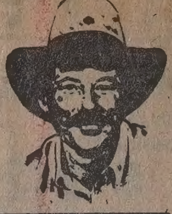
Visit to Wells mystery graves a jumpy experience

Oct. 1983
Ft. Wayne



HAB

By Doug Haberland

MOUNT ZION — "Are you sure you're supposed to be on this road?" my wife asked.

"It's a county road," I told her. "It's all right."

Willow Road, running along the Salamonie River in northwest Wells County, is narrow and enveloped by trees, and at night it is dark — really dark.

Visiting cemeteries in the dark of night (though it was only 7 p.m.) is not high on my list of fun things to do. In fact, it's not even on my list.

However, a nighttime visit to the Batson Cemetery was in order. I had heard stories of the 13 graves — a series of stone slabs in the ground, maybe graves, maybe not. I had visited them during the day — alone.

At night, however, the cemetery looked different. It looked very dark. It looked very scary.

Before we got out of the car, we debated whether to lock the doors. Nancy's rationale was she didn't want to return to the car and find somebody, or something, waiting for her.

"If I see something out there," I explained, "I don't want to waste time unlocking doors."

We locked the doors.

Every sound was magnified, especially heartbeats. The wind blew eerily through the trees, the river gurgled faintly. I moved the flashlight around the cemetery. We were startled by what appeared to be movement, but realized it was the shadows of nearby tombstones cast on the gravestones farther back.

We walked up to the 13 concrete slabs embedded in the ground, my wife wrapped tightly around my arm. The graves — or whatever they are — were in a neat row, about 35 feet long and 8 feet wide. The slabs were weathered and cracked, the soft ground encroaching on the stone. There were no inscriptions, nothing to indicate who — if anyone — was buried here.

According to a popular legend related to me by co-worker Tracy Warner, who grew up in Hartford City, the graves were those of the 12 victims of a crazed killer, who then took his own life. The 13, all paupers, were buried side-by-side beneath the stone slabs.

Warner said he and some friends went to the cemetery once on a real foggy night. The killer, of course, haunted the cemetery and didn't like people bothering him.

As they left the cemetery, Warner swears they heard footsteps behind them. Maybe twigs, maybe the wind, but probably ghosts.

The gravesites in Warren, Ind.

"Oh no, no. That's just talk," 75-year-old Harry Huffman of rural Warren told me. A longtime resident of the area, Huffman said there have been all kinds of stories about the graves.

To his knowledge, the graves are those of the Foust family, though he didn't know any more about them or how they died. The concrete covering, he said, was just the way burials were done years ago.

The 13 graves were in a small clearing, surrounded by a number of old grave markers, many dating back to the 1870s and 1880s. Some of the markers were broken or toppled, the victims of time and vandals.

Closer to the river were more modern headstones. Hiram "Hi" Brown, 80, of H. Brown & Son Funeral Home, Warren, said the last burial they performed in Batson was in 1951.

The 13 deaths may have resulted from an epidemic in the 1860s or 1870s but "that's just guesswork on my part," said Brown. The slabs were probably for protection. "In those days, just about everyone was buried in wooden boxes."

Fred Park, 75, a retired teacher and Wells County historian, said the cemetery was the burial place of many Jackson Township pioneer families. But he could shed no light on the 13 graves.

Joyce Bucker of Warren, who has researched much of the area's history, speculated the slabs may have been used to deter grave robbers in the late 1800s. There were several medical schools in the vicinity at that time, and they always needed cadavers.

It's Halloween Eve and goblins and ghosts are beginning to stir. My advice, whether you believe in ghosts, is stay away from cemeteries for the next day or two. If you must visit, do so during the day.

And, if you see anything, don't call me.

Bake sale to benefit teen-ager

Def. Crescent FRI. MAY 8, 1981

A bake sale with the proceeds benefitting Alana Foust, 18, Lima, will be held at First Federal of Defiance on Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The sale is sponsored by the youth fellowship, with the assistance of the church ladies, of Pleasant View Missionary Baptist Church.

Miss Foust has been in a coma for the past two and one-half years as the result of a collapsed lung during an operation in which her brain was deprived of oxygen for three minutes. The surgery was to correct a curvature of the spine problem.

She is being cared for at home by her mother. Her health care costs are approximately $450 per month.

~~Oakwood~~ Baptists aid girl

5-26-81 Def Crescent

Alana Foust, 19, Lima, suffered from scoliosis (curvature of the spine) and decided at age 16 to have surgery to correct it.

But during the operation a collapsed lung and hemorrhaging around her heart combined to limit oxygen to her brain for approximately three minutes. It left her in a semicomatose state and she requires full care by her mother, Etta. It costs upwards of $450 per month.

Miss Foust has been improving little by little and has surpassed many limits her doctors said she wouldn't. Great faith and daily physical therapy exercises give the family hope.

Recently, the youth organization of Pleasant View Missionary Baptist Church, Oakwood, held a bake sale to benefit Miss Foust. Thelma Hunter of the church said that they will be turning $225 over to the Foust family.

A fund has been organized for her called the Alana Foust Fund, Metropolitan Bank, c/o Dorothy Fuerst, Lima, Ohio, 45802.

Blast wounds three boys

6-21-89

BRADNER, Ohio (AP) — Wood County law enforcement authorities are still looking for clues in the shooting of three brothers who were wounded as they slept in a tent outside their home.

Daniel Faust, 15; his brother, Brian, 12, and their step-brother, Kevin Kritzar, 10, were listed in stable condition Tuesday afternoon at Wood County Hospital. Daniel was wounded in the left shoulder; Kevin in the head and Brian in the left leg and hip.

"The shooting is still under investigation," Sheriff's Deputy Gary Hager said. "We still don't have a motive or a clue why someone would want to shoot the boys."

The boys were shot at about 1:26 a.m. as they slept in their three-man tent, which was set up next to their house near this Wood County village about 25 miles south of Toledo.

The tent was located about 130 feet from an area roadway. Deputies think the sniper was about 20 feet from the tent when he fired a shotgun blast.

Dies backing car from garage

ST. LOUIS (SHNS) — An 81-year-old man was fatally injured Sunday morning when he backed his car out of his garage, crashed through a stockade fence across the alley and plunged into a large swimming pool, authorities said.

The pool owner, police and firefighters jumped into the pool and tried to get the man, John J. Faust, out of the car, which was rapidly sinking. But Faust had lost consciousness by the time the rescuers smashed the rear window and pulled him out. He was pronounced dead at a hospital.

Authorities were unsure Sunday whether Faust, a lawyer, had become ill or whether there was a mechanical problem with his auto, a 1979 Ford. An autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death.

Meal irks prisoners

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (UPI) — Nine of 11 prisoners at the Ottawa County jail went on a hunger strike Monday after claiming they were fed raw chicken at Sunday dinner.

Sheriff's deputies said the nine prisoners did not eat Monday and passed up breakfast today.

Barry Donahue, one of the prisoners, filed a writ in Ottawa County Common Pleas Court Monday, complaining about the food.

The prisoners sent one of the chicken legs back to Sheriff William Faust. Faust said it was a little red around the bone but also said one of his deputies ate the meal Sunday and said it was "delicious." JAN 1980

RECIPES OF THE WEEK . . . I received the nicest surprise this past week — a large manilla envelope with recipes from eleven Cooks of the Week. Carolynne (Kay) Foust a Chapter One Reading Teacher at the Mark Center Elementary School had gathered the recipes, pictures and personal information from fellow staff members.

She reminded me that "Right to Read Week" will be March 5-9 and that I can repay her kindness by promising to read to her classes during that week! One good turn deserves another, I guess! She uses The News-Tribune in her classes so the students are familiar with this column.

Carolynne, thank you for all of those cooks. I'll be happy to take part in your Reading Week activities!

CAROLYNNE FOUST

I decided to feature Carolynne's recipes this week. She lives in Mark Center with her husband, Gerald Foust, and children, Courtney, seven years old and Curt, six years old.

Carolynne enjoys music - especially the organ and piano. She also enjoys reading and antiques. She likes to find recipes that she can use at home with her children and also in her classes at school. On Fridays they observe "Fun Days" in her classes. They read a recipe, make it and then eat it! Carolynne spent a year teaching in Hawaii and gathered many recipes and friends during that year. She has also included two of her recipes from Hawaii.

CENTURY FARM OWNER Margaret Foust and son, Bob, stand near a soybean crop at the farm on Old Delphos Road, bought more than 100 years ago.

Foust ancestry traces back 135 years

MARION TOWNSHIP — Foust footsteps still mark the land where 135 years ago Amos Foust turned soil on this Allen County farm.

Recent footprints left by Margaret Foust and son, Bob Foust of Delphos, were made while navigating around the muddy yard created by last week's rainstorms.

A brief respite of sun shone down as they stood beside the soybean fields, rented out for decades. Mrs. Foust, 94, still lives in the white farmhouse on Old Delphos Road, and the deed to this farm rests in her hands.

She qualifies as a Century Farm owner and will be recognized in a 2 p.m. ceremony July 26 at the Allen County Museum. Research to prove a 100-year-old family ownership was done by son, Joe Foust of Lima.

Ancestor Amos Foust arrived in 1854 from Pickaway County, buying 100 acres of land from Peter and Sarah Morton. He married twice and raised six children. When he died, son Enos bought the farm.

A dog-eared, yellowed photograph shows Enos Foust courting his wife-to-be in a buggy. This smiling, young couple were parents of Mrs. Foust's husband, Dewey.

"When I got married, you know how they farmed? One little row with a horse." she said. "That's how my father-in-law done. They didn't have tractors."

Mrs. Foust helped her mother-in-law can fruit from a vast orchard.

"I'd come out here, and she'd give me a tree to pick and can. She always have to tell me how to pick. Cherries — I don't remember whether she had to have the stems on or off," Mrs. Foust said.

She remembers the farmhouse before it had electricity or running water. A big, pot-bellied stove sat where a recliner now rests in her living room.

"My bathroom was her kitchen — grandma's kitchen," Mrs. Foust reminisced.

Bob Foust can recall his grandmother stuffing sausage in that kitchen, using meat fresh from his grandpa's butchering.

He divulged an amusing memory of grandpa and the old well.

"He'd always drop his teeth in that, remember?" he asked his mother.

The land once held a summerhouse full of corn cobs, and a red barn which burned along with some tractors when one of the grandchildren played with matches.

After they moved to the farm in the mid-1940s, Mrs. Foust and her husband farmed until he retired in the early 1950s. Foust's other employment included making ice cream at Eldora Dairy, where cows were milked on the premises; working at the Lima Loco; and driving a milk truck.

The family raised livestock — pigs, cows and chickens — a tradition Mrs. Foust kept up until 15 years ago when she lost an abundance of chicks to disease. Years earlier, another animal had met an untimely death at the barn springs.

"One of our pigs got in there and drowned taking a drink," she recalled.

Lately, she has not even seen deer grazing on the farm. The only animal recently in evidence was a "big cat" in the chicken coop.

As a mother of three sons, grandmother of 13, great-grandmother of 22, and great-great-grandmother of six, Mrs. Foust has plenty of family to inherit the farm.

As to who will? "No idea," Bob Foust said. "She might outlive us all, you never know."

"I like it out here," Mrs. Foust said. "As long as I can, I want to stay."

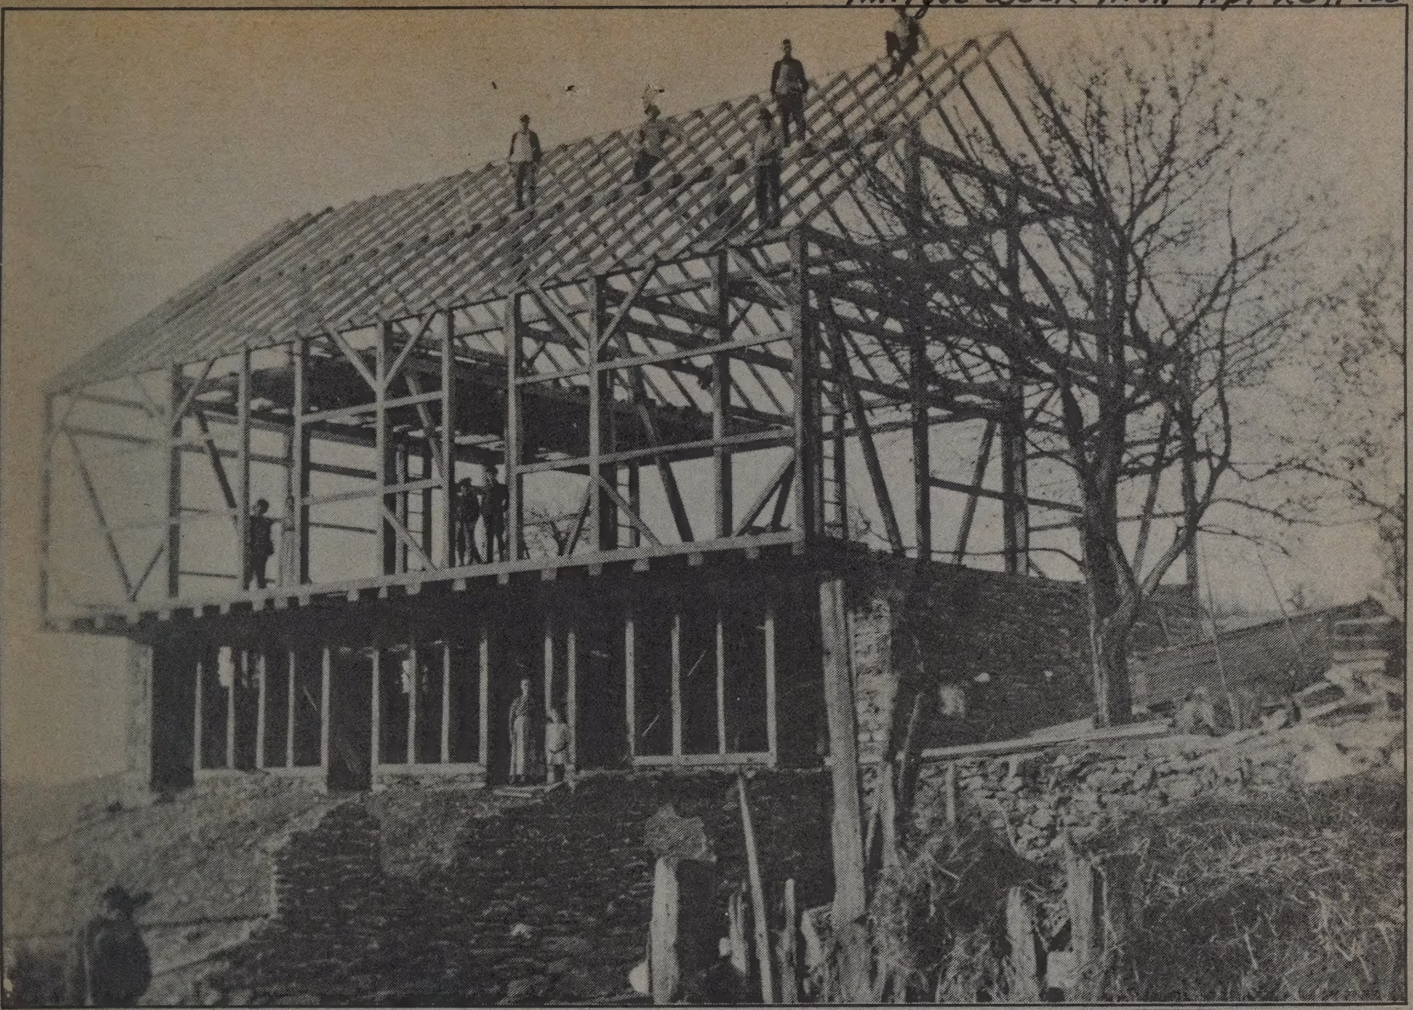
Antique Week- Mon - Apr 25, 1988



AFTER A FIRE destroyed a Pennsylvania family's barn in 1917, a barn raising was organized to build a new barn. Between 40 and 50 men spent less than a day raising the structure that is pictured here. The remainder would be finished by the family and carpenters, who posed for this photograph. The picture was submitted by Dr. F.R. Seibel, the smaller of the two boys standing in the doorway on the main floor of the barn.

Do you have a vintage photograph you'd like to share with the readers of AntiqueWeek? Send it and a description of what is pictured (include names, location and date if possible) to AntiqueWeek, P.O. Box 90, Knightstown, IN 46148. Be sure to include your name, address and telephone number. Every effort will be made to see that all photos are returned in the condition in which they were received, but AntiqueWeek will not be responsible for lost or damaged pictures. Photos chosen for publication will appear in "Images."

1917 barn raising hasn't been forgotten

by Dr. F.R. Seibel
for AntiqueWeek

Most of us have heard of barn raisings, and have a general idea of the procedure. But few people have evidence of such an operation. The accompanying picture is of a barn raising held in southern York County, Pa., about 1917 on the farm owned by the late F. Robert Seibel Sr., my father.

Following the destruction by lightning of the former barn (the remains of which can be seen in the foreground of the picture), a contract-carpenter was hired to build a new barn. He furnished a list of framing lumber required, naming number, length and diameter of each piece. This list was taken to the farm's wood lot, and the required number and size of trees were cut, using chestnut trees that had been recently killed by a chestnut blight. The trees were then dragged to a meadow where a saw mill powered by a steam engine was set up to saw the correct length and thickness of lumber.

Then a four-man team of carpenters (seen standing on the roof in the picture) cut mortises and tenons where needed on posts, beams and braces, and bored matching holes through both where the hickory pins would be used. These pins were the only parts of the entire barn, including roof shingles, which were not made of chestnut.

As this task progressed, a date was set and the owner circulated among neighboring farms, inviting them to the "raising." Between 40 and 50 men came. Many brought their wives, who in turn brought a favorite dish of food to add to the luncheon menu.

The men were divided into groups, each led by a carpenter who directed the assembly of a section of the barn, hoisting the pre-cut timbers into place with pike poles. Once fastened together with the hickory pins, the portruding ends were sawed off flush with the timbers.

When the framework was solidly in place, lunch was served by the ladies on temporary tables and benches made of boards destined to become siding, doors and partitions in the barn. Following lunch, a short work span put the rafters in place, which was the signal to tap a keg of Helb's (York, Pa.) beer, and to circulate a jug of Foust's (Glen Rock, Pa.) rye whiskey for a toast to a job well done. The neighbors then dispersed, all except for Sechrist, who set up his tripod-held camera to take the accompanying photograph. The owner, F.R. Seibel Sr. is seated on the ridge pole at the top of the barn; his wife and daughter are standing on the ground level, and his son, F.R. Seibel Jr. (the author) is the smaller of the two boys standing in the central doorway on the floor level.

Our thanks to Mr. Seibel for submitting the photograph as well as this sketch of a barn raising — Editor.

Lawsuit blasts Bluffton village's chief of police

BLUFFTON (AP) — The Village Council has asked a prosecutor to investigate allegations that the police chief took a baby from a woman and ordered her to leave town.

The woman, who has sued the village and two police officers, was going through a divorce from the mayor's son.

Assistant Allen County Prosecutor Jeff Reed said Wednesday he was not sure his office could investigate because it normally handles only criminal cases.

Holly Edwards claimed in a lawsuit filed March 1 in U.S. District Court in Toledo that Police Chief Reid Foust and Officer Rick Skilliter removed her son, then 8 months old, from her home Jan. 12.

She said the officers showed her papers they said gave custody of the child to the boy's father, William Edwards. The officers ordered Mrs. Edwards to leave Bluffton, about 60 miles south of Toledo, the lawsuit said.

Her lawyer, Lafe Tolliver, said no custody order had been issued.

Mrs. Edwards said her son was returned to her the next day. She moved to Canton, Mich., on Jan. 14.

"We have witnesses who saw what happened," Tolliver said. "They say the officers came in and ripped the baby from her arms. Then, they told her to get out of town or else."

The lawsuit seeks $800,000 in damages and an apology to be published in a local newspaper.

"You're making the assumption that we took the baby," Skilliter said. "We didn't. But I don't want to comment on the case. All of the facts will come out later."

Foust and Mayor Roger Edwards declined to comment.

William Edwards, who filed for divorce Jan. 7, was not named in the lawsuit. He could not be reached to comment Wednesday

Man sentenced for killing woman over bad breath

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A man who told police he killed a woman because she had bad breath and was nagging him to have sex has been sentenced to 60 years in prison.

Kenneth Faust, 48, who served as his own attorney during a sentencing hearing Friday, played down the significance of his confession.

"I did not confess to any murder," he told Special Judge Nancy Broyles. "I was made to feel guilty by the circumstances."

A public defender represented Faust at his November, 1992, trial in which a jury found him guilty of murdering Kathleen Bond, 42, on Oct. 23, 1990. Her body was found in the basement of the Indianapolis apartment building where she and Faust lived.

During the trial, jurors heard a videotaped statement in which Faust admitted killing Ms. Bond. He said Ms. Bond was nagging him to have sex with her, but he refused and smothered Ms. Bond because she h bad breath.

The jury rejected defense arguments that Faust was defending himself from Ms. Bond after she came home drunk from a tavern, and killed her by accident.

Faust, who called himself "co-counsel" during the trial, decided to represent himself alone at sentencing.

He told the court he remembered arguing with Ms. Bond, but nothing more because he passed out from drinking too much.

"During the interrogation, I was going through alcohol withdrawal," he said. "Guilt is an attendant emotion of that condition."

Judge Broyles said it was too late to complain about the use of the confession and sentenced him to 60 years, the maximum for murder in Indiana.

"I will find as an aggravating circumstance the fact that you hav an extensive criminal record, i cluding two previous felony convi tions," Judge Broyles said.

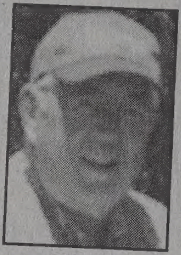
David 'Butch' Foust

BRYAN — David L. "Butch" Foust, 69, of Bryan, was called home on August 23, 2015, at the University of Toledo Medical Center, surrounded by his family, after a brief illness.

He was born in Williams County, Ohio, on March 2, 1946, the son of Marion and Lodema (Gee) Foust.



Foust

He is survived by his wife, Karen (Yost), who he married in 1995. He is also survived by daughters, Michelle (Bradley) Figgins of Monclova and Wendy (James) Stykemain of Defiance; grandchildren, Jackson Figgins and Erika, Brady, Jordan and Sophia Stykemain; stepchildren, Drena (Steven) Doseck of Pandora, Ohio, and Scott F. (Paula) Ritter of Edgerton; stepgrandchildren, Christopher and Catherine Doseck and Thomas, Megan, Micah and Noelle Ritter; and brother, Thomas (Becky) Foust of Montpelier.

He was preceded in death by his parents; sisters, Jeanne Stamm, Anna Mae Martin and Gloria (Dood) Nagel; and brother, Marion "Bud" Foust.

David worked for Aro Corporation and then became a truck driver, which he loved. He had the fortune to drive for Jones Transfer, General Highway Express, and Nations Way. After retiring from trucking, he became a Bryan City Schools bus driver and drove for 12 years. The last three years he drove the handicap bus, which was dear to him. The children on the route really touched his heart. He was also able to fulfill a lifelong dream of starting a farm 26 years ago, which gave him much satisfaction. He also loved to buy all kinds of treats for the grandchildren!

Visitation for David will be held from 3-8 p.m. Wednesday, August 26, 2015, at the United Brethren Church in Stryker, where the funeral service will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, with Pastor Nick Woodall, officiating. Interment will follow in the Fountain Grove Cemetery in Bryan.

The family requests that memorial contributions be given to Boys Town, the Cherry Street Mission or Mercy Autism Services CHIP Program. Online condolences may be offered to the family at www.grisierfh.com. Grisier Funeral Home in Stryker has been entrusted with arrangements.

Excerpt from "Faust\Foust Book" by Dr. Howard Faust: B1A2A Jacob Foust(1787-1864) Jacob Foust was the son of Jacob & Fronica Foust(error-this should be Christina Alspach). He was born Jan. 20, 1787 in Pennsylvania. He came to Ohio with his parents & in adulthood married Hannah Early. By her, Jacob had at least 6 chn. 3 boys & 3 girls. Hannah died in early middle age & is buried in an unmarked grave in Morrow Co., OH. It had been assumed by present descendants of Jacob, that he, also, was buried in the same location. Actually, this is not true. Jacob lived a good many more yrs. & died in Iowa. The Iowa Fousts, whom the author contacted all knew Jacob had come to Iowa. Incidentally, the name of his wife was found on the death certificate of Jacob's dtr., Hannah Foust Bishop. After the death of Hannah, Jacob moved to Shelby Co.,IN. He did not take all of his family with him. His older sons remained in Ohio. He did take his dtrs. His dtr. Lucy already had a son Elias. She was unmarried at the time she had Elias. While in Shelby Co.,IN. Jacob married his second wife, Delilah Michael on May 25, 1841. Jacob & Delilah had 3 chn. in Shelby Co.,IN. They then moved to Warren Co., IA, where they lived the rest of their lives. Jacob was a lifelong farmer. He died June 28, 1864. They are buried in the North River Cemetery in Greenfield Twp., Warren Co.,IA. (Gravesite visited in the late 1980s by Jerry & Lucy Weaver. It is near Indianola,IA. Have photo)

Mary Magdalena Foust was the only daughter , out of nine children of Jacob & Christenia. She was born in Berks Co., PA & came to OH with her parents in an open wagon, pulled by a team of horses & with a milk cow tied on behind, when she was just a mere child. When she was 18, she married Willaim Madison Lowther, who had migrated to OH from KY & her first child was born the following year. The Lowthers were prominent land owners & overseers of plantatons in KY. Many had earned the title of Colonel in service to our country. It was 5 yrs. later, when she was expecting her second child that her husband with a tidy sum of money, left home to buy land in the southern part of OH, but he was never seen again. It was supposed he was waylaid for his money or killed by the Indians. One can only guess at the anquish & struggle of a young widow in these early historical days, but it is surprising to learn that 3 yrs. later , 1825, she married her nephew, the eledest son of her eldest brother & her name was again Foust. She was 9 yrs. his senior. She had her second family by Jesse & lived to a ripe old age of 73. Mary Magdalena's 1847 Holy Bible was located in the possession of one of her descendants, Mildred Coonfare Moneysmith, Delaware, OH. It listed the above marriage date (28 July 1815 & William Madison Lowther's deathdate of Mar. 12, 1822, the date he left home. It also listed her name & the namesof all of her children along with all the birthdates. Many thanks to Mildred Moneysmith, who now resides in FL.

At 18 years of age Jesse became the father of Christena FOUST in Delaware Co., OH, March 22, 1826. At 20 years of age Jesse became the father of Margaret FOUST December 28, 1827. At 23 years of age Jesse became the father of Jacob FOUST in Delaware Co., OH, ca. 1830. At 24 years of age Jesse became the father of Emily FOUST in Delaware Co., OH, March 25, 1832.

Lucy-

Thank you so very much for your nice letter, and your computer print-out on your Foust family. I also come from the Jacob Foust line, and I am enclosing a direct line chart on me for you.

I really do appreciate receiving your "Query" because it becomes a question of which came first, the chicken or the egg? Since we don't have any readers yet, how do you get "Queries" for the first issue? I am most happy to have yours, and in desperation I have been corresponding with some Foust family researchers begging for a "Query" to help me get started. Your "Query" is very welcome for the first issue. Thank you.

In my records I have Job Foust (1812-1890?) born 30 January 1812 Marion county, Ohio. No other information.

Job was the son of Jacob Foust III (1786-1864) who was the son of Jacob Foust, Jr. (1757-1841), the son of Jacob Foust, Sr. (1729-1794).

I noticed the question you have on the birthdate for Jacob - either 20 January 1787 or 13 December 1785. My records show 13 December 1786, or one year later. Perhaps the 20 January 1787 date is a christening or baptism date for a 1786 birth. I do support the 1786 date, since his younger brother, John Foust (my ancester) was born in 1787.

My work on the early land transactions in Delaware and Morrow counties has never been indexed - just another one of the projects I need to get around to doing - but if you would like a copy, I will send it to you. The Ohio Genealogical Society has a copy on file, but they are also waiting for the indexing to go with it. I now have an "indexer" program on my computer, so I need to get busy and get this done.

I had no control over when Everton's was going to run the announcement of our new family newsletter, and they printed the story just a little bit early. The FAust/FOust quarterly newsletter will start January 1st, 1994 with Issue Number 1. I have already addressed your envelope, and you will get the first copy available.

I tried to make my computer draw a chart for you, but I couldn't get it going right, so I will stop here with the machine and pick up a pencil to finish this.

Best Regards,

Don

Dear Don,
Enclosed is my $10.00 check for membership renewal in the Faust-Foust Family Forum. I would like to compliment you on the fine editorial work on the newsletters. Have enjoyed each and everyone. Thanks also for printing my queries. Am enclosing another query for the newsletter when you have the space available.

Job and Sarah(Sally)HARDMAN FOUST moved to Van Wert Co., OH. in 1856. They resided in Hoaglin Twp. and had nine children. One of these was James Henry FOUST(1837-1879). Death certificate says he was married. Who was his wife? Were there any children? Mary Ellen FOUST(1838-1898) married Adam BEAMER. Are there BEAMER descendants in the Van Wert area? Also looking for descendants of Lucy FOUST and John KNESTRICK. Welcome correspondence on the above.

Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Sincerely,

Lucy Weaver

Lucy –

Thank you very much for the computer print-out on your line as of 9 June 1997. I appreciate having this for my files, and I will use this information to up-date my computer database.

I am a little tardy in answering my correspondence – we went back to Michigan for our granddaughter's June wedding, and when we returned the mail was stacked up. I am trying to get current again.

Hope to hear from you again real soon . . .

Best Regards,

Don
